Recognize Sedalians at Banquet

Professor Raymond W. Lansford, University of Missouri, was the speaker at the Chamber of Commerce banquet at the Smith-Cotton Cafeteria Thursday evening.

In a talk interspersed with humor, Dr. Lansford said that change is apparent every day. Speaking of the things that are going on in the world today and the people, he said some are tied up tightly and some loosely, but as long as everyone keeps his cool everything will turn out all right. He urged that the future not be evaluated too quickly, for this is the greatest time that has ever been.

Dr. Lansford stated that when thinking in terms of a bargain one must remember that he never gets anything for nothing. He must pay for or work for whatever he gets.

The State Fair Community College's success, he said, is good not only for the community but for the entire state — or all 50 states since graduates may live here or go to other areas.

Dr. Lansford paid high tribute to Mrs. Vivian Warren, who has served as secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce for the past six months while the chamber had no manager. Mrs. Warren planned many Chamber activities, such as the banquet. There may be a time when Mrs. Warren is not going to do these things for the Chamber, he told the group, and it is time to help her. The Chamber of Commerce office will do part of the work but everyone must cooperate in order to achieve progress, he said. The town will grow as long as there is continued cooperation, he added.

Dr. Lansford also spoke of the work William H. Hall is doing as industrial director.

The speaker was introduced by Thomas T. Keating, Chamber president.

Keating pointed out that this year's banquet honored State Fair Community College and that the success of the college should erase any doubt of whether there is a need for such a college here. He asked for the cooperation of all for the building of permanent buildings.

Special music for the evening was presented by the State Fair Community College Singers, under the direction of Mrs. Carol Barnes.

Miss Kathy Higgins, of the college, led the singing of the National Anthem.

Invocation was given by the Rev. Medford E. Speaker.

The Outstanding Director Award was presented by Mrs. Vivian Warren to the Retail Merchants Division. Its activities included the largest Christmas parade ever held, the Christmas lighting contest, the luncheon honoring 4-H leaders and many other events. Accepting the award was James

Portugal Farm Land Is Flooded

LISBON (AP)—The "White Horse"—the peasants' name for the Tagus River's flood tide—galloped through the rich flatlands of central Portugal today. It left a watery trail of damaged crops, torn-up homes and blocked roads.

The Tagus, mightiest river in Spain and Portugal, overflowed in at least three places northeast of Lisbon after 48 hours of the heaviest March rainfall in 93 years.

Vegetable fields and grazing lands, barns and towns were inundated in a wide area ranging northeast from Lisbon nearly to the Spanish border, 100 miles away.

The region, called Ribatejo, or up the Tagus, is Portugal's most important area for rice, corn and other vegetable crops, cheap table wine and breeding cattle and fighting bulls.

No deaths or injuries were reported in Ribatejo as a result of the floods, but press reports said damage was considerable.

A man and his wife were crushed to death by a landslide near Lisbon on Wednesday, the day the rain began.

C of C Honor To Hazel Lang

Hazel N. Lang, well-known and respected Sedalia newspaperwoman, was presented the 1968 Citizenship Award for outstanding service in the community at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night.

Hazel, as she is known by all, was endorsed by several organizations, churches and individuals in Sedalia for the award which read: "For enriching the community by contributing time, talent, and effort without expectation of recognition."

Hazel has spent much of her own time covering activities for civic clubs, parades, flower shows, antique shows and many other events, with personal satisfaction as her only payment.

One of her latest endeavors is a series of stories on the historical background of communities in the Sedalia area. The series has been received with widespread interest.

Her talent for writing poetry is also well known, and she has a book of poems published some time ago. Many people have asked for another.

Although she does not belong to any organization, Hazel tries to serve all. She is a member of the Wesley Methodist Church and is the seventh person to be presented with the award.

A native Sedalian, Hazel's first job, reporting the news of the community to the readers of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, is still her only job after some 35 years.

Following the presentation of the award by Bill Burkholder, Hazel was given a standing ovation by the audience.

Attack Guerrillas

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli warplanes roared over Jordan today and hammered a suspected guerrilla pocket a few miles beyond the Jordan River and just south of the Sea of Galilee.

Witnesses reported smoke and flames rising from the Jordan Valley, and military sources said the targets were bases of the Arab commando organization AIFatah.

The army would give no information, and no further details were available.

The Suez Canal, scene of five artillery battles in the past six days, was reported quiet.

Israeli and Egyptian gunners exchanged fire up and down the 103-mile waterway twice Thursday. Fires could be seen blazing at the Port Suez refinery complex and at Ismailia, but Cairo Radio said they were under control. Egypt also said six Egyptians had been wounded.

For the first time since the 1967 war, the shooting came within a dozen miles of Port Said, Egypt's sprawling Mediterranean port at the northern end of the canal.

Egypt claimed its guns downed three Israeli helicopters.

New Note To Student Rebellion

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The tempo of violence has increased in several student protests as gunfire was exchanged on one campus, the mayor of San Francisco was roughed up at another and classes were canceled after new clashes at a third.

At North Carolina A&T State University in Greensboro, police and students exchanged gunfire near the campus Thursday night. Police said two students were slightly wounded and 10 persons arrested.

The gunfire came after police used tear gas to try and break up a crowd of students they said were disrupting traffic and stoning cars. Off-duty policemen were summoned to quell the disturbance.

The disorder began after a campus rally in support of striking university dining room workers employed by a private corporation.

Earlier in the day the students had decided to boycott the dining halls although their meals there have been paid for in advance. The workers are seeking a 40-cent-an-hour pay increase to a minimum $1.80 per hour plus other demands.

At Georgetown University in Washington, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto was roughed up by demonstrators who rushed the stage. He was forced to move to another building for a planned speech on "Law and the Campus."

Alioto said he was struck on the side of the face and on the shoulder. He did not require treatment and no severe injuries were reported.

College officials said many of the demonstrators were known members of the Students for a Democratic Society and some were from other schools.

Leaflets titled "Racist Strike-breaker Plans to Speak at GU" were circulated in advance of his appearance. The reference was to the strike at San Francisco State College.

Northern Troops Strike Twice Below the DMZ

SAIGON (AP)—North Vietnamese troops attacked twice along the southern edge of the demilitarized zone Thursday, killing 18 South Vietnamese soldiers and six U.S. Marines, according to battlefield reports received today.

The first attack occurred before dawn when 400 enemy troops stormed a South Vietnamese outpost with machine guns and small arms and killed or wounded nearly half of the 150 defenders.

Field reports said 18 government soldiers were killed and 55 were wounded. Only four enemy soldiers were known to have been killed. The attack took place near Gio Linh, near the eastern end of the DMZ.

The North Vietnamese opened up on the patrol with mortars and machine guns four miles northwest of an artillery base called the Rockpile.

The fighting raged at close quarters with the North Vietnamese lobbing hand grenades at the Leathernecks, but helicopter gunships and artillery finally drove the attackers off.

Three other engagements have been fought along the DMZ since the enemy offensive began three weeks ago. U.S. officials have repeatedly accused North Vietnam of abusing the DMZ in violation of the so-called understanding under which President Johnson halted the bombing of the North last Nov. 1. The North Vietnamese say they gave no such understanding.

Fighting appeared to have slackened elsewhere across the country. But U.S. military analysts warned that the Communist command may be only pausing in its offensive to assess its effects on the peace talks in Paris and to regroup and resupply its forces in preparation for another series of heavy blows at towns and allied bases.

Allied spokesmen said there were more than 15 rocket and mortar attacks overnight on bases and towns, one of the smallest number of shelling reported in the current offensive. The U.S. Command said "over-

Announces Modified System of Defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon approved today a compromise antimissile system to safeguard "against any attack by the Chinese Communists that we can foresee over the next 10 years," and to protect the U.S. missile-bomber force from knockout.

He told a nationally broadcast news conference he believes his decision for a modified ABM system "is vital for the security and defense of the United States and also in the interest of peace throughout the world."

Nixon denied his plan, which he said will cost between $6 billion and $7 billion, will escalate the arms race. This has been a major point of attack by senators and scientists opposing deployment.

He said the Soviets, a traditionally defense-minded people, understand the Sentinel is a defensive weapon.

The net effect of Nixon's actions, coming after a five-week Pentagon and White House review, will be to shift the emphasis of the antimissile from protecting cities to insuring that this country's deterrent power is better shielded from knockout in a surprise attack.

"I believe this system is the best we can provide for our nation's security," he added.

Nixon indicated strongly he is inclined against expanding the system later to a "thick" defense against a possible massive Soviet attack.

He said a massive city defense system would have to be near-perfect to be credible—that is, effective in cutting civilian losses significantly.

"Although every instinct motivates me to provide the American people with complete protection against a major nuclear attack," Nixon said, "it is not now within our power to do so."

But he added: "The safety of our country requires that we should proceed now with the development and construction of the new system in a carefully phased program."

In this connection, he indicated that safeguarding this country's 1,054 long-range, land-based missiles and its 600 bombers would pay off to a greater extent than a city-saver system, because it would make an enemy pause before trying to hit this country.

Nixon said he does not believe the Soviets would interpret his move today as escalation of the arms race.

"I think the Soviet Union recognizes very clearly the difference between a defensive posture and an offensive posture," the President explained.

The Soviets, he added, always have been defensive minded and would understand the U.S. attitude.

"The Sentinel system approved by the previous administration provided more capabilities for the defense cities than the program I am recommending," Nixon stated. "But it did not provide protection against some threats to our retaliatory forces which have developed subsequently."

The chief executive listed

these objectives for his antimissile program:

—"Protection of our land-based retaliatory forces against a direct attack by the Soviet Union."

—"Defense of the American people against the kind of nuclear attack which Communist China is likely to be able to mount within the decade."

—"Protection against possible

Nixon Vows Retaliation If Offensive Continues

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon declared today that the Communists in Vietnam have received their only warning, that "action will take place" if their offensive produces an intolerable rate of U.S. casualties.

He underscored the possibility of U.S. retaliation after announcing at a White House news conference that he has ordered deployment of a missile defense system designed to safeguard U.S. offensive capability.

At the same time, Nixon said the nature of any U.S. response to attacks in Vietnam "must be measured" in terms of its effect on the peace negotiations in Paris.

The President also said "there is no foreseeable prospect" of a reduction in U.S. troop levels in Vietnam.

The Nixon ABM proposal, unveiled earlier in the morning at a White House meeting attended by leaders of Congress, could add to already existing controversy. Support and opposition were both reported at the meeting.

On Vietnam, Nixon underscored, but did not reissue, his March 4 statement that: "We will not tolerate a continuation of this kind of attack without some response that will be appropriate."

Nixon said the Communists, not his administration, stepped up combat in Vietnam. He said any escalation of the war "has been the responsibility of the enemy."

"If the enemy de-escalates its attacks, ours will go down," he said.

His possible response to the Communist offensive was the first question raised at the news conference, and Nixon, in reply, recalled that his March 4 statement was widely interpreted as a warning against continuing assaults on cities and bases.

"It would be my policy as President to issue a warning only once, and I will not repeat it now," Nixon said. "Anything in the future that is done will be done, and there will be no repeated warning."

At the same time, Nixon said he believes there is "significant progress being made" toward private talks aimed at settlement of the conflict.

"I trust there will be private talks," he said, "I think that's where this war will be settled, in private rather than in public."

And Nixon said there will be no new warning to the Vietnam foe in advance of such action.

U.S. Space Trio Begins The Long Trip for Home

ABOARD THE USS GUADALCANAL (AP)—The Apollo 9 astronauts, flying in three separate helicopters, took off from the deck of this carrier today on the first leg of a trip which ends with family reunions at Ellington Air Force Base near Houston.

The crewmen, Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart, are flying first to Eleuthera Auxiliary Air Force Base in the Bahamas.

They are expected to arrive there about 11:45 a.m.

The spacemen will transfer to a space agency airplane for a 60-minute flight to a refueling stop at Cape Kennedy. They'll leave there half an hour later and are expected at Ellington about 5 p.m.

The space trio rode their Apollo command module to a pinpoint landing Thursday, splashing into a calm Atlantic 300 miles north of Puerto Rico within view of television cameras aboard this ship.

After more than six hours of medical tests a flight surgeon said they were in very good condition with no significant medical problems.

The spacemen emerged from sick bay shaven and neatly dressed in blue overalls and sneakers.

They walked to their heat-scarred spacecraft on the carrier deck and McDivitt said affectionately, "Good old Gum drop," referring to the code name used for the module during the flight.

The astronauts were honored guests at a dinner of steak and baked potatoes in the ship's officers mess.

Later, they took part in the ceremonial cutting of a 350-pound cake prepared by the ship's cooks.

While the astronauts rested and got accustomed to the gravity of earth, Space Agency officials celebrated what they had done.

Dr. George E. Mueller, associate director for manned space flight, called Apollo 9 "as successful a flight as any of us could ever wish for, as well as being as successful as any of us has ever seen."

He said he was especially pleased with the performance of the lunar module, which was flown manned for the first time.

Senate Ratifies Treaty; Russia Has Next Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty has passed the next move in damping down the arms race to the United States "would be partner in disarmament talks—the Soviet Union."

U.S. diplomats generally expected that Moscow would soon follow suit. The Kremlin does not have to tussle with a sometimes balky legislature in its ratification routine.

But some figured the Soviets might foot-drag a while, using the delay for such political purposes as pressuring the West Germans to join the treaty.

It takes ratification by all three original nuclear co-sponsors of the pact—the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain—to bring the treaty into force. Britain ratified last November.

Also, at least 40 other nonnuclear nations must ratify. Since the treaty was presented to the world last July 1, a total of 87 countries have signed and 10 have ratified.

A lopsided Senate vote of 83 to 15 in favor of the treaty Thursday climaxed an eight-month U.S. delay caused by international tensions and domestic politics.

President Johnson sent the treaty to the Senate last July with a call for prompt ratification. The Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in August induced many senators to go slow on the pact. President Nixon, then campaigning, favored a period of delay but resubmitted the treaty to the Senate after he took office.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who floor-managed the treaty as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, beat back all amendments handily when the agreement did come up for debate.

The treaty carries two basic provisions: (1) nuclear nations pledge not to supply atomic arms to those who do not have them, and (2) the have-not countries agree not to acquire them.

Ratified Treaty

After an eight-month political stalemate and a host of last-minute reservations that were soundly defeated, the Senate approved the proposed treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. Among those voting

New Views On Sin Concept

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Original sin," that old, deep-down guilt in the human psyche, is being viewed in new ways today across a widening spectrum of church scholarship.

Questions also are being raised increasingly about the idea that the human race started with a single couple, Adam and Eve—despite the insistence on this position in some high Roman Catholic quarters.

Much of Protestantism has tended toward modified approaches to the subject, but changed understandings now are showing up more and more among some Catholic theologians.

The trend is attributed chiefly to deepened probings of the Bible and its literary forms — along with the impact of modern scientific insights into the rise of mankind.

A noted Catholic Bible scholar of Germany, Dr. Herbert Haag, says in a new book that the traditional Catholic doctrine that original sin is "inherited" from Adam through one's ancestors "is foreign to Holy Scripture."

Instead, he says, the meaning is "that sin, after its entrance into the world, so spread that consequently all men are born into a sinful world and become themselves sinners."

"The idea of inheriting sin is not a biblical concept," he says in his new study, "Is Original Sin in Scripture?" issued by Sheed and Ward, a Catholic publishing house.

Haag, professor of Old Testament at the University of Tübingen and president of the Catholic Bible Association of Germany, also challenged the doctrine of monogenism—that mankind stemmed from a single couple.

He suggests that the church drop the teaching.

Scripture "in no way" teaches the doctrine, he says, and in fact "probably speaks more for polygenism"—the possible multiple origins of humanity.

He points out that in Hebrew, the language in which the Old Testament was written, the term "Adam" always "means not a single individual but mankind as a species."

Haag says the traditional church view of mankind's single-couple origins in pristine innocence is being so extensively questioned by Catholic scholars "that previously held 'dogmas' have ceased to be dogmas, to the great dismay of those who believe in the immutability of dogmas."

St. Augustine, in the 5th century, coined the term "original sin."

A new Dutch catechism, circulated in English in this country, has run into Vatican criticisms for not spelling out the old formulations about it. The Vatican has demanded revisions.

The new interpretations also run counter to past papal pronouncements, including Pope Paul's "Credo" of last June 30, saying Adam's "original offense" shattered man's beginning "holiness and justice" and that this "original sin is transmitted with human nature."

Price Increases Not Isolated to Gasoline

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The recent increase in the wholesale price of gasoline, expected to add a cent a gallon at the pump, isn't an isolated instance of the inflationary pressures endangering the economy.

Perhaps it was more prominently publicized, mainly because gasoline is used by almost every family in America. But price increases have become common since President Nixon took office. Clearly he is on the spot.

During the first two months of 1969 industrial prices rose 1.2 per cent, one of the sharpest increases in several years. In coming weeks, as a result, more pressure is likely to be placed on consumer prices.

The timing of these increases isn't altogether a coincidence.

Some companies seemingly were waiting for a change of administrations to lift prices, assuming that a transitional government might be too occupied to respond.

Others seem to have correctly assumed that a new administration would be reluctant to confront any company or industry over an issue that could cause strained relations for the next four years.

The puzzle now is what the Nixon administration is going to do about it.

Right from the very beginning of this administration, Nixon has pledged to fight inflation as one of the most dangerous enemies of the nation's security.

The dangers obviously are well known. Among them:

—The longer inflation is permitted to grow the less likely it is that the necessary slowdown can be accomplished without forcing a depression.

—The longer inflation persists the less competitive are U.S. goods in foreign markets. This is the same as saying dollars are less acceptable to foreign citizens and governments.

The effects of uncontrolled inflation could be a collapse not only of the U.S. economy but the destruction of international trade. As dollars become less acceptable, that collapse becomes more imminent.

In seeking to avert those tragedies, the Nixon people have assigned themselves an incredibly complex job. Not only have they promised to fight inflation, but they have suggested they would do so with as little pain as possible.

However, the specifics on just how the anti-inflation war is to be waged have not been spelled out. Over-all strategy has been indicated, but the tactics haven't been detailed. Pledges have been made but orders are awaited.

In general, the strategy calls for avoiding a budget deficit and maintaining, through the Federal Reserve, a tight control of the money supply. Direct intervention in the economy is to be avoided.

This means that both direct controls on wages and prices will be avoided, as will indirect controls in the form of guideposts.

Church Experiences New Anxieties About Trends

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mixed trends are at work today in the ordained ministry, with some of the downward indexes causing sharp anxiety in the churches. However, other indicators are on the upgrade.

It's a scrambled picture. Roman Catholic leaders say the church is suffering a "vocation crisis." Among Protestant, Orthodox and Jewish bodies, the manpower supply ranges up and down.

Over-all statistics, of varying currency, suggest that there are about 25,000 fewer men serving as clergymen than were doing so two years ago—a 6 per cent drop possibly stemming in part from departures from the ministry.

The total exodus of Protestant ministers apparently has been greater than the more recent, widely reported departure of Catholic priests, of whom about 1,000 have been recorded as quitting in this country in the last two years.

However, there still are about 375,000 active American clergymen, totaling both current and past denominational data gathered by the research department of the National Council of Churches.

Also, Protestant seminary enrollment is at an all-time high.

The American Association of Theological Schools, including 158 seminaries, says the 1968-69 student bodies total 28,033, a 3.7 per cent increase over the comparable figure a year ago.

The upturn continues a rise that began in 1965, reversing a seven-year downturn that hit a low of 21,025 in 1964. But most of the recent increase has been in larger, interdenominationally-linked clusters of seminaries.

Many smaller, denominational schools still were registering declines.

Roman Catholic seminary enrollment also was down by 5,541 to 39,838 this term, the decline totalling nearly 9,000 since a 1965 figure of 48,992. Before the present sharp plunge, the count had wavered for six years near a 1959 peak of 49,100.

The number of Catholic priests, totalling 59,803 also fell by 89 in 1968, the first over-all decline since 1940, and perhaps in American Catholic history, despite the continued rise in church membership.

The ranks of Catholic nuns also has dropped for two years from a 1966 high of 181,421 to 176,341 now, but the shrinkage has been only slight recently, with a possible upturn ahead.

Considering the general situation, however, Catholic Bishop John J. Wright, of Pittsburgh, says the church is facing "a major crisis in the recruiting and perseverance" of persons in religious vocations.

Various factors have been cited as the cause of the problem—the shifting, clouded image of the priesthood, the questioning of its traditional role, the clergy challenges to bishops and demands for "due process" and a voice in decisions.

Numerous Catholic educators, such as the Rt. Rev. George A. Schlichte, rector of Pope John XXIII seminary, Weston, Mass., have suggested that ending celibacy requirements would greatly increase candidates for the priesthood.

Protestant leaders also say that a blurring of clergy identity has made it harder to attract men into the ministry. Relatively low church salaries, in an inflationary economy, also has created difficulties.

Rules Vote Needed On Ordinances

CLINTON, Mo. (AP) — The Jackson County Circuit Court has ruled that the City Council of Kansas City must submit four utility tax ordinances to a vote of the citizens within 60 days.

The ordinances were passed by the council last Sept. 9, increasing the tax on utility companies to 10 per cent. The rate formerly was 6 per cent. The companies simply passed the increase on to consumers by raising utility bills.

Five Kansas City taxpayers filed a mandamus action to force an election on the tax increase. The city claimed the ordinances were emergency measures and therefore not subject to referendum.

Judge Kelo Journey of Clinton was assigned by the Missouri Supreme Court to hear the cases as a special judge.

Judge Journey ruled Thursday that the plaintiffs had a right to seek a mandamus action; that the council did not pass the ordinances under a legal emergency, and that the referendum petitions presented by the plaintiffs were proper and adequate to force an election.

Herbert Hoffman, city counselor of Kansas City, said he expects to appeal the case to the Missouri Supreme Court.

Sentinel

accidental missile launches from any country.

In what appeared to be a message to the Soviet Union, Nixon said the modified Sentinel system "has been designed so that its defensive intent is unmistakable."

Some ABM critics contend the Sentinel would be provocative to the Soviets.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird presented Nixon on March 5 with several options on a nuclear umbrella. Nixon said today he chose the option which would begin a "measured construction on an active defense of our retaliatory forces."

Shortly before the White House issued the statement, Nixon summoned Republican and Democratic congressional leaders for a briefing on the first major decision of his young administration.

Underlining the importance of a move that could wreck relations with the Democratic-controlled Congress, Nixon left a White House reception early Thursday night saying he had some "homework" to do.

Earlier in the day the chief executive met with Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, a supporter of ABM deployment who said this week he expected Nixon to go ahead with a somewhat altered system.

For the President, the news conference climaxed 10 days of intensive review and mounting pressure to scrap the $5.5-billion legacy from Lyndon Johnson which critics fear will escalate the arms race and wind up costing billions more while domestic programs lag.

Strong opposition to Sentinel also has come from residents near proposed sites who fear accidental detonation of one of the nuclear-tipped missiles.

Opponents in the Senate have kept up a drumfire of criticism with one of their leaders—Massachusetts Democrat Edward M. Kennedy—pressing his case in dinner-party chat with Nixon at the White House.

After hours of conferences with top advisers and three days of document scanning under the Florida sun, Nixon plucked his decision from a series of options that offered little chance for him to escape unbruised.

At the bottom of the scale, "further delay invited charges of vacillation. And at the top, full-scale deployment of the original Johnson program faced 47 already certain opposition votes in the Senate and 27 undecideds from which to cull the majority that would kill it.

"I can't believe the President is going to deploy them," said Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before the news conference.

The Arkansas Democrat, a captain of Senate anti-Sentinel forces, commented after ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty. Fulbright and others have used debate on the treaty, whose Article VI calls for prompt disarmament talks, as a platform for their missile defense opposition.

"In the face of this vote, with only 15 votes against the treaty and 83 for it and with article VI in it and all that's been said, if he should in the face of that proceed with the deployment of the ABM, I'll be the most surprised man in Washington," Fulbright said.

The Johnson administration listed the prime purpose of the Sentinel defense as blunting the small-scale, unsophisticated ICBMs Red China is expected to have in the 1970s. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has estimated the Chinese may have 20 to 30 long range missiles then.

Dr. S. M. Babcock perfected the test for fat content of milk and cream in 1890.

Knowing the Enemy Is Vital in Drug Battle

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

Wise parents will try to lead from the strength of knowledge in discussing drugs with their children. Only that way are they likely to be effective; only that way can they speak intelligently.

Knowledge in this case must be based on the facts about the drugs themselves — what they're like and what they do to people. Here is a rundown on the principal drugs being used or abused.

Marijuana

It's more commonly known as pot, grass, Mary Jane, hay, joint, reefer, stick or by a dozen other names.

As generally used in the United States, marijuana is a mild drug that produces fantasies. Smokers may develop a psychological need for it. But it is not physically habit forming — quitting it doesn't cause any physical withdrawal symptoms.

It is not a narcotic, and neither are other hallucination-producing drugs. Marijuana is under narcotics control for various reasons. But true narcotics usually produce sleep or stupor and relieve pain; they can be addictive or habit forming.

Marijuana comes from the female hemp plant, Cannabis sativa. The leaves and flowering tops are dried, sometimes are mixed with tobacco, and rolled into a cigarette.

The effects, felt in a few minutes, usually last three to five hours, but may go on for 12. Reefers can vary widely in potency, depending on their content of the active plant ingredient.

Typically, most smokers have a feeling of great well-being, of feeling high, like having had a few alcoholic drinks. They may become talkative and hilarious, or fall into a dreamy state. Their ideas flow rapidly, sometimes in disconnected fashion.

They fantasize, and sometimes have a deeper appreciation of works of art or music. Time stretches out. Distance and sounds are magnified.

Other smokers may feel irritable and confused, or become fearful.

LSD

LSD is so potent that a dose no larger than the point of a pin is enough to send most people off on amazing "trips" within their own minds. LSD stands for lysergic acid diethylamide, and is often simply called acid, trips, cubes, pearly gates or heavenly blue.

It's supplied, quite illegally, as a powder in capsules, small white pills, or a colorless, tasteless liquid that can be soaked into sugar cubes or crackers.

A trip usually begins 30 to 45 minutes after the drug is swallowed, and last eight to 12 hours. How a person reacts depends on the dose, the person himself, his mood, and the setting.

Most users report seeing brilliant colors, starbursts, and distortion of geometric objects. Senses may blend so colors appear to be tasted. Sensitivity to sound increases. Objects may pulsate. Something as familiar as a teacup can appear to be an object of fantastic beauty and wonder. Feelings of creativity are enhanced. Time may slow, then race ahead, or even seem to go backward.

On bad trips, users may feel cut off, alone, anxious, panicky. Some land in hospitals for treatment of mental disturbances, and a few have killed or injured themselves.

No physical dependence develops, but psychological dependence may.

Other Hallucination Drugs

Mescaline: From the buttons of a small cactus plant — peyote or mescal. It is also supplied illegally as a powder or liquid. Far milder than LSD, its effects last 10 to 12 hours.

PEYOTE itself, a less concentrated form of mescaline, therefore milder.

PSILOCYBIN from a Mexican mushroom, supplied in crystal, powder, or liquid form.

Its effects last two to six hours generally, and are similar to those from mescaline.

DMT (Dimethyltryptamine) produces effects like those from LSD when taken in larger doses. Effects last an hour or two.

STP (also known as DOM), a synthetic chemical related to mescaline and amphetamines, is reported to be extremely mind-distorting but less so than LSD.

MORNING GLORY SEEDS of a few varieties contain an active principle closely related to LSD, but far less potent.

Barbiturates and Depressants

To drug abusers, barbiturates are known by many nicknames — goofballs, barbs, candy, yellow jackets, secy, rainbows, blue devils, and the like.

Numerous people become physically and psychologically dependent upon barbiturates — there are many types — for sleep, or to combat anxiety or tensions. When tolerance builds up, the drugs stimulate rather than depress.

Some abusers use barbiturates combined with pep pills for a see-saw effect, or take the barbiturates to reduce the jitters that pep pills cause. When combined with alcohol, the kick from barbiturates can be fatal.

Prolonged use of barbiturates can lead to impaired judgment and intellectual performance, to bizarre behavior, slurred speech, tremor, self-neglect. Abrupt withdrawal in a dependent user may lead to nausea, fever, hallucinations, convulsions, coma, and even death.

Amphetamines and Stimulants

There's a big black market in amphetamines and other stimulant drugs — commonly called pep pills, wake-ups, bennies, dexies, copilots, footballs. Medically, amphetamines are used to combat appetite, to relieve mild depression, and for other purposes. Truck drivers may take them to stay awake on long hauls, or students to stay up late studying for exams.

Overuse and abuse induce a sense of good feeling, excitement, boundless energy, a sense that feeling tired has gone out of style.

Amphetamines do not cause physical dependence. Quitting this habit doesn't cause physical distress.

In large amounts, amphetamines can induce hallucinations and delusions or psychoses, especially if injected. Methamphetamine or Speed, is one very dangerous drug which some abusers have been injecting.

COCAINE, from the leaf of the coca plant, was one of the earliest stimulant drugs. High doses can induce happy feelings and hallucinations. Overdoses may cause convulsions and death.

Heroin and Other Narcotics

Opium, from the poppy plant, was the ancient forerunner of powerful pain-relieving and depressant drugs. Morphine is a derivative, and a priceless medical painkiller at times.

Heroin, closely related to morphine, has no medical uses, but at least 60,000 Americans are addicted to it. They use heroin — the big H, horse, junk — to induce a sense of good feeling, to reduce feelings of fear, anxiety and tension.

The user can "go on the nod," becoming sleepy, and "safe" from problems and challenges. This effect, depending on dose and potency, usually lasts only three to four hours. Then the habitual user must seek more drug.

Narcotics can become his way of life, and a costly one, often supported by crime. Most authorities say the narcotics addict steals, burgles or engages in prostitution to get money, rather than committing violent crimes.

These narcotics produce both physical and psychological dependence. Pregnant women who continue using heroin or allied drugs may have newborn babies who show all the troubles of narcotics withdrawal. Such babies may die unless treated immediately with antidotes.

Heroin users usually become truly "hooked" after taking the drug daily for a week or so.

Some youngsters seeking kicks abuse cough syrups containing codeine, an opium derivative, or medicines containing paregoric, containing a dilute amount of opium.

Glue Sniffing

Sniffing airplane glue, or gasoline, and vapors from other products is a persistent and dangerous, if low-level, fad among the very young and some teenagers.

Solvents in the vapors can act as poisons, resulting in permanent damage to the nervous system and liver, and big enough doses can be fatal. Youngsters sniffing the vapors become dizzy, and can think the experience is "fun."

Music Club Presents Pre-Easter Program

In a chapel-like setting, a pre-Easter program was presented March 12 to members and guests at the Helen G. Steele Music Club.

Mrs. Eugene Logan, narrator, began by saying, "For centuries these words have been used in scripture, music and poetry — Glorify God, Praise God and Honor God. Today we shall attempt to present our program based on these words tied together with music which exemplifies our theme — All Glory, Laud and Honor."

The chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Donald Barnes opened with "Into the Woods My Master Went," by Lanier-Nevin, followed by a biblical reading on Glory by Mrs. Logan, with appropriate background organ music by Mrs. Fran Slagel. This was complimented by two vocal numbers, "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken" and "For the Beauty of the Earth," by Mrs. Stanley Fisher, accompanied by Mrs. Slagel.

Mrs. Chester Kirkpatrick chose several biblical selections on Laud or Praise, concluding with "Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee," Psalms 67 verse 3.

A vocal ensemble composed of Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Donald Barnes, Mrs. William Green, Mrs. Don Buller and Mary Jane Mahoney, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Watts, sang "Praise Ye the Name of the Lord."

Mrs. Robert Finland read the passage of scripture on the word Honor from Hebrews 2 verse 7, John 5 verse 23, and Psalms 26 verse 8. While meditating on these words Mrs.

Slagel played "The Heavens are Telling" by Haydn.

The Chorus closed the program with the singing of "All Glory Laud and Honor," with Mrs. Jack Herndon, soloist. Mrs. Watts accompanist. Members of the chorus were: Mrs. William Green, Mrs. Ed Worley, Mrs. Robert Finland, Mrs. Chester Kirkpatrick, Mrs. M. O. Stevens, Mrs. Stanley Fisher, Mrs. Jack Herndon, Mrs. Leo J. Harned, Miss Mary Hurlbut, Mrs. A. J. Harlan, Mrs. Don Buller, Mrs. Robert Seelen and Mrs. Kenneth Schreiner. Co-chairmen were Mrs. Eugene Logan, Mrs. Elmer Van Dyke and Mrs. Chester Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Al Miles, artist chairman, announced that on the next program, March 19, The Intercollegiate Chamber Ensemble will appear in concert under the auspices and sponsorship of the Missouri Council on the Arts. Mrs. George Routsong, president, adjourned the meeting.

Drake And CSU Meet For Midwestern Berth

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Drake, which made things tough for itself by tightening up in its first NCAA basketball tournament appearance, and Colorado State University, which let the other guys get tense, meet Saturday for the Midwest berth in this year's playdowns.

Drake, 24-4 and co-champion of the Missouri Valley Conference, shook off its tightness in the second half to defeat Texas A & M 81-63.

Colorado State pulled off its second major surprise in five days, dumping Big Eight champion Colorado 64-56 in Thursday night's regional here. Last Saturday the Rams upset Dayton 52-50.

Now, the Bulldogs and Rams meet for the Midwest Regional title at 3:15 p.m. Saturday with the winner advancing to the national semifinals at Louisville, Ky., next weekend.

Although Drake handily won its 11th straight game, the Bulldogs didn't take charge until they reeled off 12 points within three minutes halfway through the second period to take a 55-40 lead over the Aggies, Southwest Conference champions.

"Our first half shooting was our worst yet," Drake coach Maury John said, "but credit that to the tourney jitters."

"This was really not one of our best games in the 11-game winning streak," he added. "Our ball club was tight. Kids are human. It's an NCAA tournament."

Willie McCarter led Drake with 24 points, hitting 12 of 24 shots. Mike Heitman and Steve Niles each got 12 for Texas A & M.

"Turnovers plagued us all year," Aggie coach Shelby Metcalf said of his club's 23 ball-handling errors. "But we hoped we could shake them in the tournament."

Colorado State coach Jim Williams discounted any psychological edge his team might have had because it got a chance to play the University of Colorado for the first time in 10 years.

"I can never figure my team's attitude," said Williams. "All I know is, I'm happy." Colorado and Colorado State have not scheduled each other in any sport for a decade.

The Rams, now 18-6, beat Colorado with aggressiveness and the shooting and rebounding of Cliff Shegog and Mike Davis. Shegog scored 20 points and Davis grabbed 13 rebounds before fouling out.

Colorado's Cliff Meely scored 32 points, but got no help from Gordon Tope and Mike Coleman, the Buffaloes' No. 2 and 3 scorers, who managed four points between them.

Buff coach Sox Walseth would not fault any of his players, however. "CSU deserved to beat us," he said. "I think you've got to give Jim's team all the credit."

Colorado and Texas A & M play for third place at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Thunder Foot Leads Kickers In The AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerrel Wilson of Kansas City missed his American Football League record by three-tenths of a yard but still easily led all punters in the AFL last season, final statistics showed today.

Wilson averaged 45.1 yards a punt, just short of the record 45.4 he set in 1965.

Bill Van Heusen of Denver and New York's Curley Johnson tied for second with averages of 43.8.

Bob Scarpitto of Boston, the 1967 leader when he was with Denver, got off the longest punt, an 87-yarder against the Broncos. However, his over-all average was 40.6, which tied him for ninth.

UCLA Wins, 53-28 As Wooden Worries

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
UCLA beat New Mexico State, but now Johnny Wooden, coach of the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, has a new worry.

All-American Lew Alcindor, UCLA's agile 7-foot-1½ giant, twisted his right ankle after scoring 16 points in leading the Bruins over the Aggies 53-28 in the West Regional of the NCAA championship tourney at Los Angeles Thursday night.

A UCLA spokesman said the injury was not serious, but even a slightly below par Alcindor could jeopardize the Bruins' chances when they play the third-ranked Santa Clara Broncos in the West Regional final Saturday afternoon.

"It will be at least late Friday afternoon before we have any definite word as to his exact shape," Wooden said.

Santa Clara blew an 18-point lead against Weber State, but pulled out a 63-59 overtime victory over the Big Sky Conference champs. Weber almost pulled the upset of the night, but Dave Sackolwitz missed two free throws with six seconds left in regulation time and the score tied 55-55.

"Our sophomores were just too excited," said Phil Johnson, Weber State coach.

Duquesne similarly almost pulled off a stunner against North Carolina before losing 79-78 to the fourth-ranked Tar Heels in the East Regional at College Park, Md.

North Carolina, which at one time led by 14 points at 67-53, won on two field goals by soph Lee Demon on passes from Charlie Scott in the final 28 seconds.

"Time just ran out on us," said a dejected Red Manning, the Duquesne coach.

Marquette and Colorado State U. did register upsets. Marquette whipped seventh-ranked Kentucky 81-74 in the Midwest Regional at Madison, Wis., and Colorado State knocked off favored Colorado 64-56 in the Midwest Regional at Manhattan, Kan., despite 32 points by Colorado's soph, Cliff Meely.

"The boys were sky high for this one," said a happy Al McGuire, the Marquette coach, after Kentucky's defeat.

Mike Maloy's 35 points paced fifth-ranked Davidson over the eighth-ranked St. John's Redmen 79-69. Rick Mount's 32 points led sixth-ranked Purdue in a 91-71 rout of Miami of Ohio and Willie McCarter's 24 points sparked Drake over Texas A&M 81-63 in the other NCAA regional games.

The results set up these national quarter-final matches Saturday afternoon. Time is Eastern Standard.

At College Park, Md., 2:15 p.m., North Carolina, 26-3, vs. Davidson, 27-2.

At Madison, Wis., 4:05 p.m., Purdue, 21-4, vs. Marquette, 24-4.

At Manhattan, Kan., 4:15 p.m., Drake, 24-4, vs. Colorado State U., 17-6.

At Los Angeles, 6:05 p.m., UCLA, 26-1, vs. Santa Clara, 27-1.

There was activity in other postseason tourneys.

Temple routed Florida 82-66 and St. Peter's of New Jersey upset Tulsa 75-71 in the opening of the NIT at New York.

Little League 'Free' Exams

Saturday morning starting at 9 a.m., the Sedalia Little League, Inc. will hold their annual free physical for all Little League age boys in the Sedalia area. The examinations will be given at the Armory, located at 9th and Ohio.

To be eligible for the league, each boy must fill out a Little League application card and have it signed by his parents; this card must be brought to the Armory with the Little League Prospectant.

All boys born after August 1, 1956 and before July 31, 1961, are eligible to play.

Each boy must pass a physical examination to play in the league. If, for any reason, a boy cannot attend the free physical, it will be necessary to have your doctor sign the application form.

Applications not turned in at the Armory on March 15, must be given to one of the player agents before April 1.

The player agents are: Mr. Ray Simons, 1602 South Marshall and Mr. Richard Vansell, 1619 East 13th.

Purdue Starter Out

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Chuck Bavis, Purdue's starting center, suffered a shoulder separation or broken collarbone Thursday night and is lost for the remainder of the NCAA basketball tournament. Coach George King said.

Purdue beat Miami of Ohio 91-71 in the Midwest Regionals.

"I didn't know anything about it until after the game," King said. "When he came out of the game he didn't say a thing about it."

King said there was a chance another starter, Herman Gilliam, might be able to play against Marquette. Gilliam has missed Purdue's last four games with a severely sprained ankle.

Michigan State's football team will play Southern Methodist, Notre Dame, Ohio State and Michigan on successive Saturdays next fall.

All-Conference Honors For Grems Wanserski

Jim Wanserski, Sacred Heart High School junior, has been selected as a member of the 1968-69 All-Kaysinger Conference Basketball Team.

Wanserski, a 6'2" guard-forward, was one of the bright spots on Coach Jim Gladbach's Gremlins squad this season.

Top vote getter for the all-conference team was Jim Eken, a junior from Lincoln High School.

Ken Hampy and Bob Goodnight from Smithton were also named on the honor team for the second year in succession.

Others placed on the All-Kaysinger Conference team were: Larry Bybee and Danny Sevier, both seniors from LaMonte; Jim Bratton, senior from Northwest of Hughesville; Terry McCain, senior from Lincoln; Larry Cobb, Sam Henderson and Terry Martin, all seniors from Warsaw.

Hampy and Goodnight were the only players to repeat on the 1968-69 squad from last year's team.

Bob Shackelford, Kaysinger Conference secretary, also announced the names of the all-conference girls volleyball team.

Pat Denker of Cole Camp received the most votes for the volleyball division.

Others named included: Marsha Barbour, Lila Cooper, Rose Crocker, and Cindy Stevens all from Stover; Linda Grobe and Denise Kinkead of Warsaw; Teresa Green, freshman from Smithton; Carol Jones of LaMonte; and Pat Stoneking from Cole Camp.

Montreal Expos Prepare For Big League Opener

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gene Mauch, the manager of a $10 million production beginning to take shape here, has changed roles for three of his leading men—Maury Wills, Bob Bailey and Rusty Staub—as the Montreal Expos prepare for their major league debut.

All three will have to play vital roles for the new Expos if the club is to justify its $10 million price-tag and become an immediate gate-attraction in the first city outside the United States to ever have a major league baseball franchise.

The three moves involve moving Wills back to shortstop from the third base post he handled the last two years at Pittsburgh, converting Bailey from a third baseman and outfielder to a first baseman and leaving Staub, who also has played first, in the outfield to stay.

Mauch's reasoning? Here's how he sees it:

Wills: "He told me he can play shortstop and he wouldn't say it if he didn't think he could do it. It's easier to play third base but he's making a lot of money (an estimated $80,000 that makes him the highest paid Expo) and he wants to earn it."

Bailey: "He's done some good things in the majors but I think that at age 26 he still can be as productive as Pittsburgh did when they gave him that big bonus to sign (an estimated $175,000 seven years ago that still is one of the largest ever)."

Bailey moving to Los Angeles and Wills to Pittsburgh. Bailey indicated his promise in 1964 when he hit .281 but has never fulfilled expectations. Wills, who is 36, stole 52 bases while hitting .278 last season.

With Wills and Bailey in the infield will be second baseman Gary Sutherland, a first round expansion draft pick who hit .275 with Philadelphia last year in 67 games, and third baseman Coco Laboy, a product of the St. Louis farm system with a .292 batting average, 15 homers and 100 runs batted in at Tulsa last year in 1968.

The outfield shapes up with Staub holding one post, Mack Jones another and Manny Mota and-or Jim Fairey battling for or sharing the other. Jones was drafted from Cincinnati, Mota from Pittsburgh and Fairey from Los Angeles.

John Bateman will be the catcher, and right now the only three starters he knows he's going to catch are Jim (Mudcat) Grant, John Billingham and Larry Jaster. Grant and Billingham, who had a 2.15 earned run average in 50 games last year, were drafted from Los Angeles. Jaster, 9-13, was drafted from St. Louis.

It just three starters indicates the Expos are short on pitching that's exactly the main problem, particularly with veteran Larry Jackson retiring. Help will have to come from the youngsters—Ernest McAnally, Bob Reynolds, Mike Wegener, who never have pitched in the majors.

The Class M-S Outdoor meet is scheduled for May 10 at Memorial Stadium at Columbia, and the Class L event for May 17, also in Columbia.

Babe Ruth Exams Saturday Morning

Physical examinations for the Sedalia Babe Ruth League will be held at the Armory Saturday morning, March 15, at 9 a.m.

There will be no charge for these physicals; they will be given by volunteer help from the Bothwell Hospital professional staff.

In order to qualify for this league, a boy must be 13 years of age before August 1, 1969 or not have his 16th birthday before that same date.

All boys must have a physical examination before they are eligible to play during the coming season.

Managers are still needed for this summer; anyone interested should contact Bill Watson at 826-6326.

Move Could Take A's To Playoffs

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The smartest move the Oakland Athletics have made since the end of the 1968 season was the deal that put them in the West Division of the American League in 1969.

With that one canny move—one over which they presumably had no control—the Athletics were magically transformed from a sixth-place ball club into one that is actually favored to make the playoffs for the American League pennant.

The real reason for this change in fortune is the fact that the Athletics are now in a division with three teams that had worse records than they did last year—Minnesota, California and Chicago—and two that weren't even in existence then—Seattle and Kansas City.

But this happy set of circumstances should not obscure the fact that Oakland does have solid team it has been building for: young, fast and powerful.

"Young pitching is our biggest strength," says the Athletics' new manager, Hank Bauer, pointing to a starting rotation of Jim Nash, 24; Jim Hunter, 23; John Odom, 24, and Chuck Dobson, 25. Odom won 16 games last year, Nash and Hunter 13 each and Dobson 12.

"I think we've got a chance at the pennant," says Bauer. "Certainly the divisional setup helps. You take away guys like Detroit, Baltimore and Cleveland, they're tough ball clubs."

The infield and outfield make-up of the club is also just about set. At first base is Danny Carter, the league's second leading hitter last year at .290.

Dick Green, a sure fielder, is set at second as are speedy Bert Campaneris at shortstop and fast-improving Sal Bando at third. Campaneris led the majors with 68 steals last year and the league with 177 hits.

Rick Monday, who hit .274 last season, and Reggie Jackson, who blasted 29 homers, will be in the outfield along with Mike Hershberger, who hit .272 last season.

KC Dog Show Features Cash, 'Dukes Mixture'

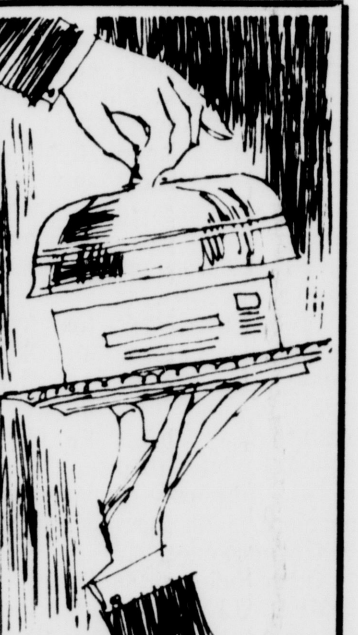

KANSAS CITY — One of the most important dog shows of the year will be staged Sunday at Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Heart of America Kennel Club, Inc.

The show, which will feature conformation and obedience trial judging of nearly 1600 dogs, will open at 9 a.m. and close at 9 p.m. with the selection of the "Best In Show" winner.

Show officials report that 91 different breeds will compete. The most popular entry is the poodle, with German shepherds running a close second. A very heavy entry of St. Bernards and Siberian huskies is also scheduled.

Cash, prizes and trophies totalling over $5,000 will be awarded throughout the day.

The show is a benched event, meaning that dogs must remain on display to the public even though they may have already completed their competition.

Crossroads Comment...

Tax reform may not be universally popular after all. Following a comment in this column about the drooling prospect of revising the $600 personal exemption on income tax to $1,200 for which a bill is already in Congress, we found an unsigned, indignant note on our desk the next morning, reading:

"U.S. tax rate still one of lowest in the entire world. Why gripe or even drool?"

Who says we don't have real patriots in defense of taxation and government extravagance? At least they are vocal about it, albeit anonymous!

This provides an interlude for an excerpt from Francis Moore's Almanac:

"When after many battles past,
Both tir'd with blows, make peace at last.

What is it, after all, the people get?
Why! taxes, widows, wooden legs and debt."

A friend informs us that a diplomat is one who can tell a person where to go and cause him to enjoy the trip.

But, since this is the era of dissent, let's quote John Hay on the subject:

"There are three species of creatures who when they seem coming are going; and when they seem going they come: Diplomats, women and crabs."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Nixon Plan to End War Is Elusive

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — It has now been a little over one year since President Nixon, speaking in the New Hampshire primary last February, said he had a plan to end the war in Vietnam. It was a statement he repeated several times during the campaign, with the explanation that he did not want to reveal his plan for fear of complicating peace negotiations. He would reveal it after his election, he said.

It has now been more than four months since his election, and approximately two months since he became president, and still no peace plan for Vietnam has been revealed.

While the American public is generally tolerant of a new president and willing to give him time to make good on campaign promises, there is one basic fact which experienced diplomats say Mr. Nixon must learn.

This is that international crises will not wait. They are volatile, not static; they change from day to day, usually for the worse, and no public relations man, no Madison Avenue techniques, can change this.

Specifically, events have not stood still in the Near East, where a new war could break out any moment.

And they have not stood still in Vietnam, where the war has escalated and North Vietnam has resumed shelling both military targets and the cities, while no attempt was made to conduct private talks in Paris for seven weeks.

—Problems in Vietnam—
Events in Southeast Asia have become much less conducive to peace.

First, the North Vietnamese obviously are doing what the United States previously did — stepping up their military operation in order to negotiate from strength.

Second, the bitter controversy between Russia and Red China has weakened Russian influence in North Vietnam, where Moscow used its influence previously on the side of the United States. Now the Chinese are vigorously courting the North Vietnamese, with a corresponding rise in influence in Hanoi.

Finally, here at home, draft calls in the universities are due to escalate about 500 per cent soon.

All this could revive for Nixon the headaches Johnson suffered before he announced his bombing pause last March.

—Problems in Near East—
Rapidly moving events in the Near East could make life even more difficult for Mr. Nixon.

First, President Nasser has turned down the bid, discreetly and unofficially tendered by former Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, to resume diplomatic relations between Egypt and the United States. The State Department is not advertising this cold shoulder.

Second, the recent bombardment along the Suez Canal is a direct Egyptian violation of a stern order by Russia not to provoke the Israelis. This means that either the Russians lifted their ban in order to goad Mr. Nixon; or else the Egyptians have decided to give their Russian allies the back of their hand.

Either is serious, and could result in another real war between the Israelis and the Arabs.

Looking Backward

NINETY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A Nevada judge, after the jury had been impaneled, and counsel ready to proceed, pulled out a revolver and judicially remarked: "If any man goes frolicking around this court room during the trial of this case, I shall interrupt him in his career."

FORTY YEARS AGO

W. J. Collins, a new fireman, was placed on the West Sedalia company shift under John Lueck, foreman, with Fred Brummett, William Middleton and Ora Martin. Another new fireman Emmett "Pots" Vaught will serve under Harry "Dutch" Stoble, foreman, with Leo Weber, Al Lueck and Carl Bergmann.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church for the past five years and eight months, presented his resignation to the congregation and will accept the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Carthage March 26. He came here from the First Baptist church in Parsons, Kans. He is almost a native Sedalian, coming here with his parents when five months of age.

Then there is this one: "Diplomats generally have long noses, since usually they can't see beyond them."

We get this message from Lake Worth, Florida Herald which may explain where a big chunk of the taxpayers' money is going: "One of the interesting things about our presidential elections is the amount of dirt the two parties dig up about each other. Since the Democrats took over the Agriculture Department eight years ago, we have lost more than 800,000 farms in America. We have lost more than four and a half million farmers. But during that same span of years, we have added in excess of 20,000 workers to the payroll in the Department of Agriculture. The number of farms is down 20 per cent. The number of farmers is down 29 per cent. But the size of the Agriculture Department is up 23 per cent."

Jefferson City, the Capital of Missouri, was originally laid out by Daniel M. Boone, son of the famous frontiersman. We are told that his plan called for a park on each street. That's farsightedness for modernity, indirectly speaking. Jeff City today has park places on each street but not enough, especially downtown, as any motorist going there can vouchsafe.

A Clavicle Calamity

By BETTY CANARY

Nothing cuts into a woman's day like having a daughter break a collarbone, unless, of course, it's having the main sewer back up into the basement. If both happen on the same day, well, perhaps the sensible reaction might be to simply remark, "I do not believe this," and go on scraping oatmeal off the chair rungs. Unfortunately, as all we executive-housewife types know, this is not the usual way of handling such problems.

It may be that I am too close to the situation, but I think this kind of thing is what gives the occupation of housewife a bad name. The fact that fate allows these unexpected, time-consuming, nerve-shattering events to occur on what wasn't too good a day to begin with merely proves once again that motherhood, housewife and efficiency do not belong in the same sentence. Possibly they do not belong in the same language.

I know many might disagree with those statements and they might blithely whip out daily schedules to prove their efficiency. However, as even the best schedule follower must admit, a child will never walk up and ask, "When may I break my clavicle, mother? Do you think you could fit me in on Thursday?"

Try as you might, a woman simply cannot train a child to co-operate in such an admirable manner.

I am willing to concede that a schedule-follower of the first order will not have certain problems when her plumbing goes out. We can be reasonably sure she will not have three baskets of ironing sitting on the basement floor. We are absolutely certain she would never have piles of magazines and books on the floor next to the ironing.

However, she will still spend an entire day in the X-ray room before she tackles even the smallest mess in a basement. And this necessarily throws her off schedule. Perhaps I should say here that not all hospitals insist you spend an entire day in the X-ray room. Some hospitals let you spend HALF a day in the X-ray lab and the other half you may divide between sunroom, coffee shop and emergency station.

The thing is that you're sitting somewhere with a lot on your mind and nothing in hand, and it's best to use this time wisely and constructively. I spent my time being thankful.

It goes without saying that I was thankful my child broke a collarbone and not her neck. I was thankful that I had a car at home. Also, I was thankful it didn't happen last week—when I had dinner guests and a broken washing machine.

Also, this is not the first child of mine who has had a broken bone and I could even be thankful for THAT. Because, when we went home I knew that nothing would surprise me. I already knew all about the master-slave relationship the two of us would enjoy.

While I was being thankful I even thought I might be grateful that my husband was out of town. Good heavens, after reading all the magazine articles about how I should keep him from having a heart attack, I was glad I could sort of sock it to him gradually. Speaking of socks, just think how the poor man might have reacted if the plumber had handed HIM the socks and the doll clothes out of the basement drain—and then said the real trouble was farther down the pipe?

Hardening of Arteries A Factor in Strokes

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What is generalized arteriosclerosis? At what age does it start? Can diet or exercise help?

A — Generalized arteriosclerosis is hardening of the arteries throughout the body. It starts the day you are born but progresses faster in some persons than in others. Exercises aimed at general fitness and a diet low in cholesterol will check its progress.

Q — I have heard that eating too many eggs can cause hardening of the arteries. Is this true?

A — Although egg yolks are rich in cholesterol, they are an excellent food. Unless there is some special reason to avoid them, you should eat three to six eggs a week.

Q — Does hardening of the arteries cause a stroke or other serious diseases?

A — It is an important factor favoring stroke, coronary heart disease and kidney failure.

Q — What are the symptoms of cerebral arteriosclerosis? At what age does it begin? Can any preventive measures be taken? Is it hereditary?

A — The earliest symptoms are poor memory for recent events, reduced general efficiency and easy fatigability. There is no constant age of onset. It may begin in the early 40s or it may be absent in the 90s. Measures for preventing hardening of the arteries in general should be helpful. These include avoidance of over-weight, nervous tension and smoking. If the blood pressure is high it should be controlled. Heredity may be a causative factor but it is not one you can do much about.

Q — I am taking Cyclospasmol to dilate my blood vessels. Can they be dilated too much? Are there any side effects from this drug?

A — Since blood vessel dilators relax contractions in the vessel wall, thus permitting the vessels to dilate, they cannot be said to cause over-dilation. The side effects of Cyclospasmol include nausea, flushing of the skin, a feeling of weakness and rapid pulse.

Q — Is it true that orange juice, water and beef are causative factors in clogging the arteries because of the residue contained in them?

A — No.

Q — In a recent column you said that inhaling tetraethyl lead gasoline fumes can cause brain damage. I am not in the habit of smelling gas fumes but whenever I start my car I get a strong whiff. Can this harm me or my children?

A — No. The true gasoline sniffer inhales the fumes for hours at a time.

MONEY CLIPS

A First for Jamaica

The government of Jamaica has put into circulation its first decimal coinage and has issued its first proof set as a member of the commonwealth. The sets are being minted by the Royal Mint in London and consist of six coins—five cupro-nickel pieces and a copper one-cent piece.

The obverse of each coin bears the coat of arms of Jamaica and each reverse represents a different national symbol of the island. Until now, the likeness of the ruling British monarch dominated the face of Jamaican coinage and the coat of arms occupied the reverse.

This coat of arms is particularly interesting in that it had been incorrectly engraved in 1869 and wasn't discovered until 1903. It was corrected before the 1904 coinage and remained unchanged until 1964, when it was modified. The original Latin motto, "Indus uterque serviet uni," has been changed to one in English, "Out of Many, One People."

Incidentally, the release containing the announcement on the new coinage contained photos of everything but the obverse. It is an attractive bit of heraldry originally designed by William Sandcroft, the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The reverse of each coin represents one of the national symbols of the commonwealth. These designs were created by Christopher Ironside and are expressions of art in themselves. There is no half-dollar coin and, in the absence of the dollar-size coin, I can only describe the 25, 20, 10, 5 and 1 cent copper.

On the reverse of the 25-cent coin, Ironside depicts the doctor bird, a swallow-tailed hummingbird native only to Jamaica and one of the most spectacular of over 320 specimens. It is only natural that it be chosen as the national bird of the island government. Blue Mahoe, a native timber and national tree, occupies the area on the back of the 20-cent piece.

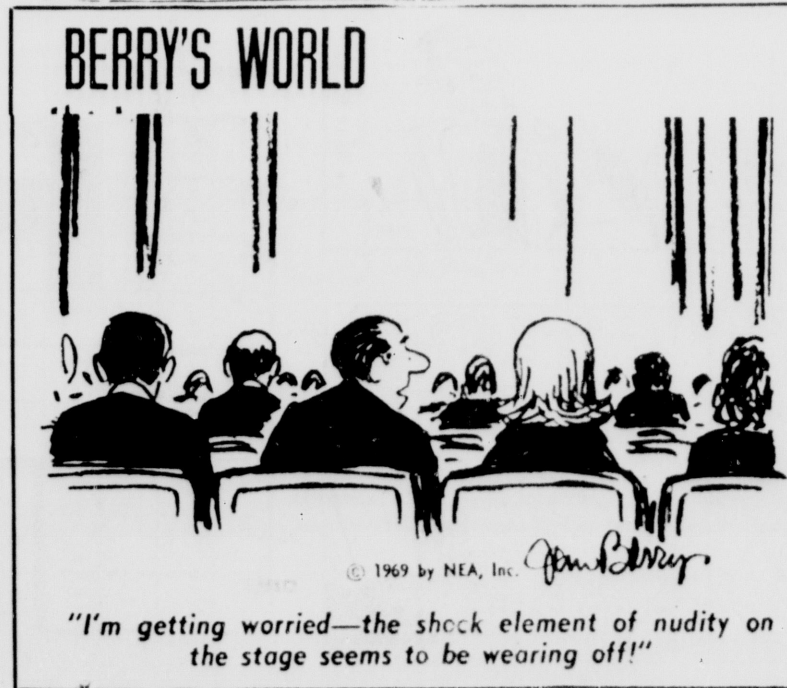

"Wood of Life," believed to medicinal properties, is actually the Lignum Vitae tree, one of the hardest woods known to exist anywhere and used extensively in the shipbuilding industry for the manufacture of propeller shaft bearings. The attractive blue flower of Jamaica's Guaiacum officinale graces the reverse of the dime shown below.

A crocodile, similar to one of the symbols in the coat of arms, is understandably alone on the five-cent piece. This reptile has been one of the natural attractions of the south coast for centuries and a component in the crest since 1661.

Orders for the proof sets will be accepted until June 30 and quantities are limited to 25 sets a person. The price is $15.25 for each set and in Paramount International Coin Corp., Paramount Building, Englewood, Ohio 45322.

Today's hand is also taken from "Winning Declarer Play." It is an example of an avoidance play but Dorothy Hayden gives it a different treatment by showing how it would be played by players with different degrees of knowledge in bridge.

There are 10 sure tricks and the 11th will develop easily if East holds the ace of spades.

A beginner is likely to run off six of his trumps, cash the king and ace of clubs and eventually lead a spade toward his king. Down one!

An intermediate player will recognize the chance of setting up clubs and will play out three rounds of clubs. If West holds the long club everything will be fine but East wins it and leads a spade. Down one!

An advanced player will make a better effort. He will lead a club from dummy with the intention of finessing his 10. An alert East will spoil this plan by rising with the jack of clubs. He will get in with a club eventually and lead that spade. Still down one!

The expert will make his contract. He will simply let West hold the first heart trick by playing low from dummy. If hearts are continued the expert will wind up with all the rest of the tricks. He will discard a club on the ace of hearts, cash the top clubs, ruff a club and discard both his spades on dummy's last two clubs.

Somewhat we think that most West players would go on to five hearts and save at the cost of not more than 100 points, or else come out with a profit if North and South went on to six diamonds.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Why did the National Gallery of Art frame Leonardo da Vinci's painting "Ginevra de' Benci" front and back?

A—The reason is that Leonardo put a painting on the back of the portrait, too. The Ginevra is the only portrait—indeed, the only painting—ever turned out by Da Vinci with a second painting by him on the reverse side of the canvas.

Q—Which apes have no tails?

A—The gorilla, the chimpanzee, the gibbon and the orangutan.

Q—In Christian art, what does the club symbolize?

A—Martyrdom.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — Do I have to report my company pension as income?

A — If the company paid the entire cost of the pension, the amounts you received usually will be fully taxable. If you paid part of the cost, only a portion of your pension benefits will be taxed.

If you will recover the total amount of your contributions within three years after you receive the first payment, your pension will not be taxed until you have recovered your cost. If you will not recover the amount of your contributions within the three years, a portion of the pension will be taxable each year. Instructions are contained in the instructions for Schedule B of Form 1040.

Q — Do you have anything that explains depreciation in a small business?

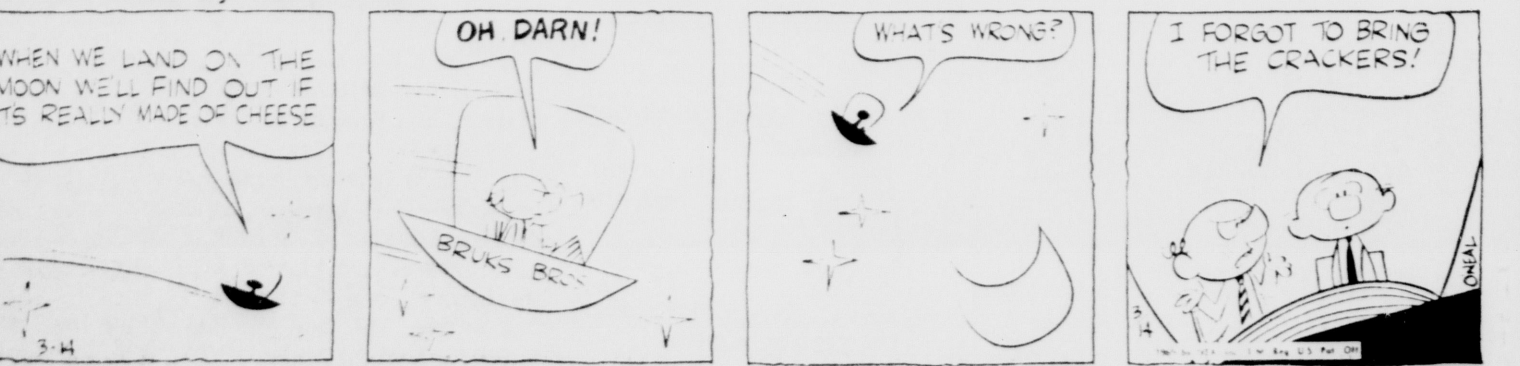

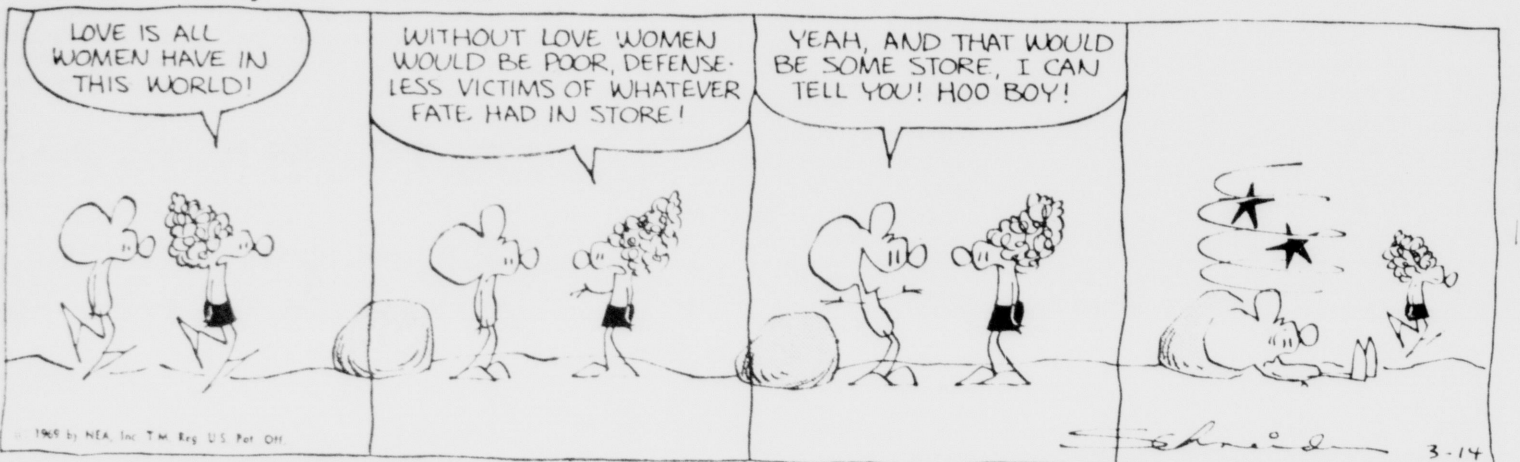

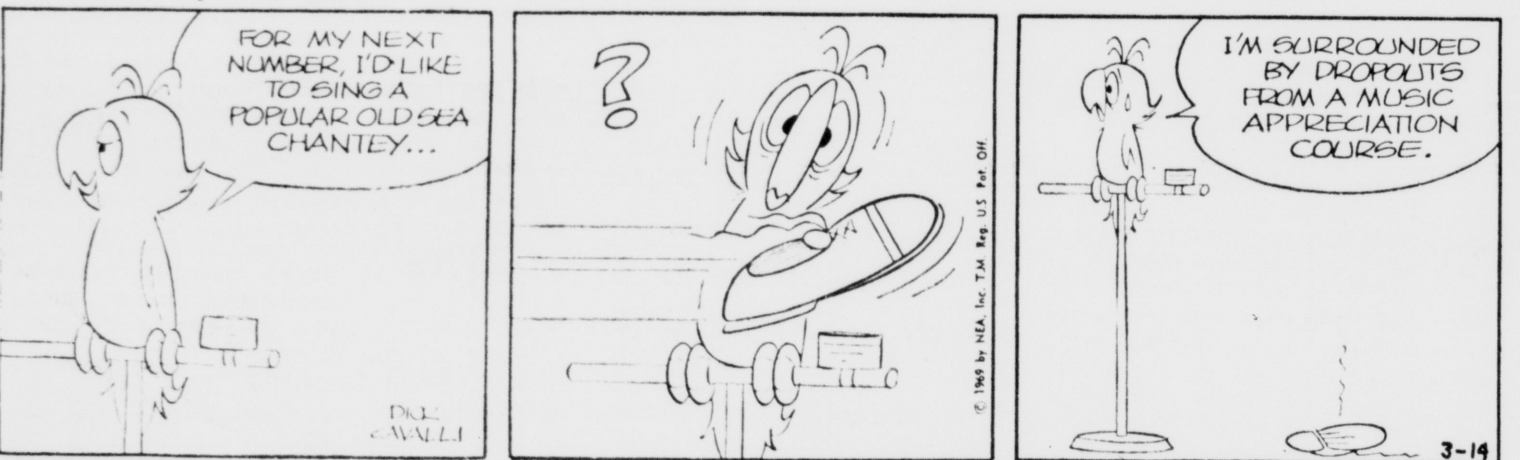

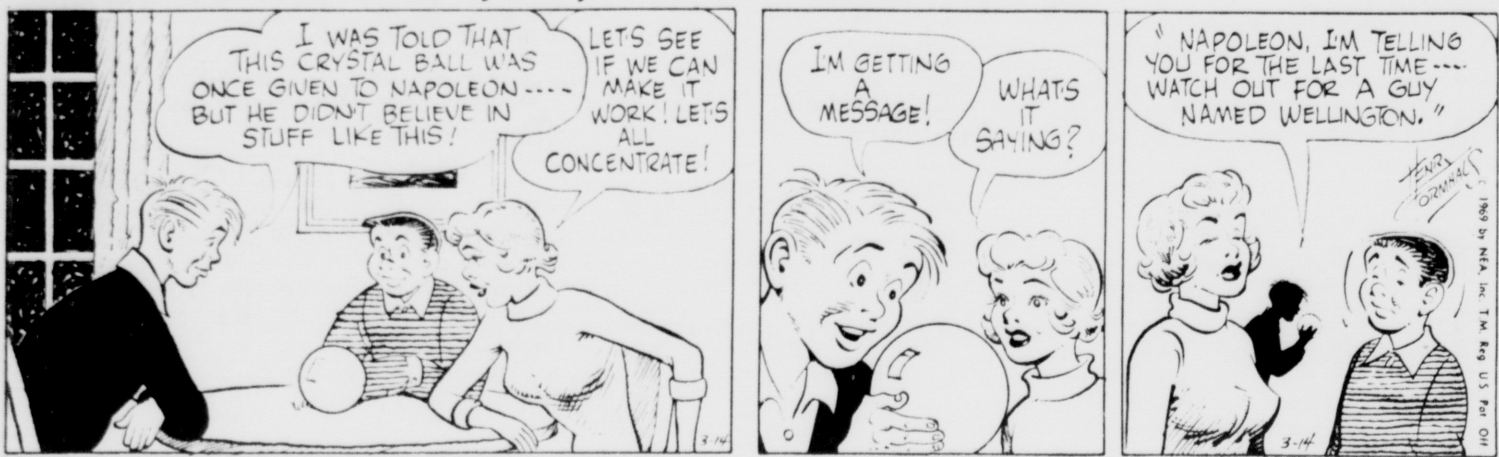

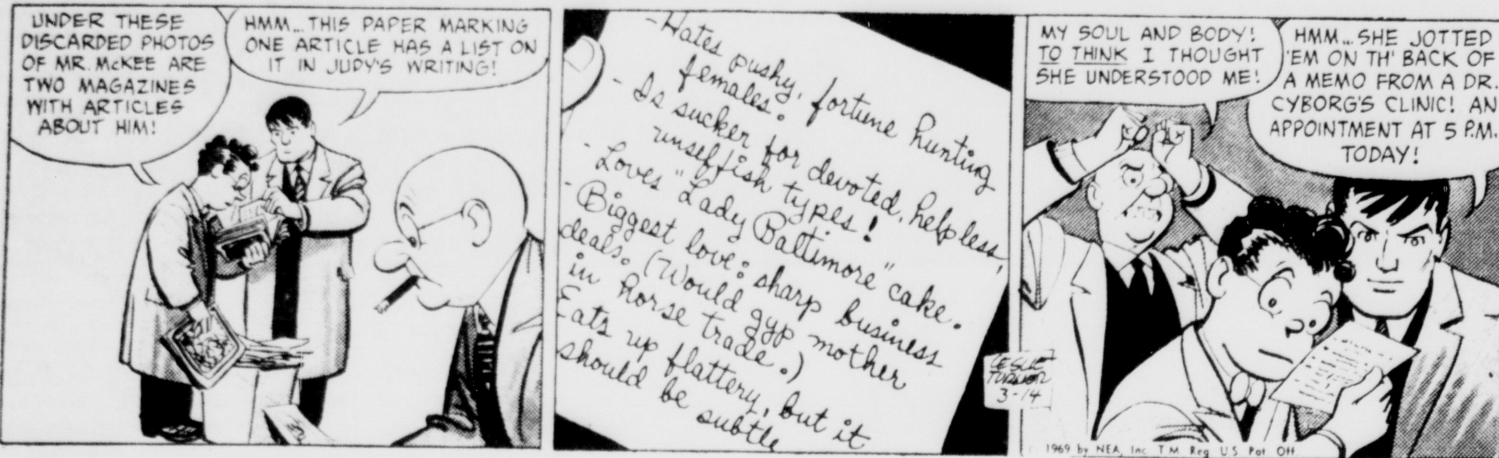

A — Depreciation is covered in our Publication 534, "Depreciation. Investment credit. Amortization. Depletion." It is available, free, at IRS offices.

MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL: Something Fishy. — Canada's minister of fisheries has received a communication from an organization that calls itself the Weight Watchers reporting that its members are compelled to eat at least five fresh fish meals a week because they have "found fish to be a 'magic' food for a slim, healthy life."

Ottawa's Department of External Affairs reports this in its weekly bulletin under a headline that reads, "Fish Don't Go To Waist."

Amateur Photographers Will Value These Hints

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Catherine can avoid shadows on pictures she is taking by having the sun behind her but at such an angle that the shadow is not on the lens when she snaps the picture. What is on the lens will be on the picture.

To avoid the flash of the light bulb reflecting on a subject wearing glasses, do not have that person look directly at the camera but looking toward a spot next to the person taking the picture. A little practice will make a perfect picture.—MRS. D. H.

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Catherine I have been an amateur photographer for over 45 years and the only way I have been able to eliminate shadows from eyeglasses is to take the picture with the subject either facing away from the sun or facing north in the shade of a building. Of course, in doing this you will have to use a camera with an adjustable lens so the opening can be set according to the available light.

The shadows can be softened by using a reflector at the side of the subject. This should be positioned to cut down the shadows as much as possible. This reflector could be anything white that can be set in the right position, such as white cardboard or a piece of crumpled foil that has been flattened out and glued to a piece of cardboard.—RAY

DEAR CAMERA BUGS—Ray's method is a bit more complicated and a professional photographer thinks it may be a bit more than the average snapshot amateur would want to use, but it is something to work toward.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Even though my cabinet drawers are lined with that great washable, adhesive-backed paper, I happened on to an easy way to clean them. I just brush the crumbs with my little girl's toy nylon broom into her small plastic dustpan, both of which are easy to get into a drawer. I did every drawer in the house the same way.—LEE

DEAR POLLY—By putting a piece of foam rubber tape with adhesive on it on the inside of my son's belt, I solved the problem we had with a belt that was too loose with summer pants and just right with winter pants.—MRS. W. B.

Drury repeated as league champion. Tarkio was second and Culver-Stockton third.

Named on the second team were Bill Slaughter and Greg Carter, both of Tarkio; Ralph Damon, Graceland; Gary Wells, Westminster, and Jay Moore, Culver-Stockton. Slaughter is a junior, the others are seniors.

Ann Landers

Disinterest Can Cause Wandering

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed Sick Of Sex And Hungry For Love could have been written by my wife. I'm sure she didn't write it, however, because she wouldn't expend the energy.

After our third child was born, she said, "Why can't we just kiss and let it go at that?" How do you like that for a 35-year-old woman?

Whenever I get amorous she says, "All right, hurry up and satisfy your animal passions and get it over with." She should be glad that I am least satisfying my animal passions at home. If it weren't for our wonderful kids I would have left my wife long ago.

I've agreed to go with her to a clergyman, a psychiatrist or a marriage counselor but she says, "Men always stick together. I couldn't win."

I don't need advice. It's too late for that. I'm just writing to prove there are two sides to every coin. Perhaps I should sign my letter, "Sick Of Sex And Hungry For Love." Men need to feel wanted and needed, too. — BATTING ZERO

Dear Bat: A wife who wants to "kiss and let it go at that" hands her husband an engraved invitation to go elsewhere. My condolences to you, sir, and to her, my best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 14-year-old girl who has been reading your column ever since I was 11. My mother doesn't think your column is fit for anyone who is not married. Mom always gets the paper first. When she comes across something she doesn't want me to see she tears it out. Whenever I see a hole in the paper I call up my girl friend and ask her to bring your column to school so I can see what Mom is hiding. It's always about sex.

My question is this: Can a 16-year-old boy make a 14-year-old girl pregnant if she keeps all her clothes on? — MISS TAKEN

Dear Miss: The answer to your question is yes. And I hope you will ask your school counselor or a favorite teacher to answer any other questions which might occur to you. (P.S. If you've been reading my column regularly, Toots, how come you haven't been paying any attention to my advice?)

Dear Ann: No problems I can't handle, but I do have a suggestion that could save a life.

People who live in climates where the snow piles up and the temperature below zero would be wise to keep a couple large candles in the glove compartment of the car. If the car stalls, these lighted candles would throw off enough heat to prevent a person from freezing. Also, the lights would attract the attention of a passing motorist. — GREENVILLE

Dear Greenville: Thanks for the tip. Especially for my readers in Canada, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Dakota, Nebraska and Illinois. Baby, it's cold outside.

Confidential to Me And My Big Mouth: The next time you are behind the back of a friend, try patting it.

New Army Unit to Help Soldier With Problems

By DON REEDER

Associated Press Writer
FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP)—Got a problem, soldier? See your unit attorney or social worker for some expert help.

About 2,000 specially selected troops at this old Army post on the barren plains of northeastern Kansas can do just that.

It isn't that these GI's are such proficient soldiers that they rate deluxe treatment. Quite the contrary.

Trainees assigned to the Correctional Training Facility (CTF) were chosen specifically because they have been lousy soldiers.

Every one of them has been convicted by court martial, most of them for being absent without leave but some for more serious offenses ranging up to and including manslaughter.

The CTF is the Army's first—and so far its only—comprehensive attempt to make real soldiers out of the fewer than one per cent of its members who qualify as genuine foul balls.

"These guys," said one CTF officer, "have just one thing in common. They've all got troubles."

The Army opened the center last July after surveys disclosed very few—perhaps only 10 per cent—of soldiers court martialled emerge from punishment to go on and earn an honorable discharge.

Compounding the problem was the fact that expansion due to the Vietnam war was causing the Army to run out of places to confine prisoners.

Every post stockade in the country was jammed, and the number of disciplinary barracks for long-term prisoners had been cut back from 15 during World War II to only one—at weary Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

So the CTF was opened to "provide the intensive training, close custodial supervision and that correctional treatment necessary to return military prisoners to duty as well trained soldiers with improved attitudes and motivations."

Every week about 200 prisoners arrive from 24 post stockades around the country. They were selected by commanders who felt there was still a chance to make soldiers out of them.

The typical trainee is a high school dropout with an IQ of about 85 who comes from a broken home. Most of them haven't finished basic training, but a few have fought in Vietnam.

"They're a pretty sullen, sloppy bunch when we first get 'em," said a member of the CTF cadre, or training staff.

What awaits them? A week of processing, eight weeks of training and another week waiting to be assigned to a new unit.

A trainee's first look at the CFC inevitably brings to mind a Nazi concentration camp. Old wooden barracks painted a dull yellow are surrounded by an eight-foot barbed wire fence flanked by guard towers and searchlights.

"But the fence can't really keep anybody inside if they want out," admits Lt. Col. James W. Devitt, commander of the center's 2nd Battalion.

"As a matter of fact we tell the trainees to just wait a few days, and we'll show them how to breach the barbed wire. It's part of the training."

Most of the instruction takes place outside the wire, and the cadre are not armed. Only a helmet insignia distinguishes CTF trainees from others on the post.

Before any training begins, however, the soldiers are interviewed by one of the center's 14 trained social workers, one of the five Army attorneys and one of the five chaplains.

Money and women are the most common reasons for the GI getting into trouble in the first place. Experts straighten out chaotic pay records, begin dependent allotments, arrange for marriages or divorces and generally try to bring some order to a trainee's personal affairs.

It's not easy, CTF officials admit.

"We live and work with these guys day and night. If we can just find out what's bugging them, we've got a chance to help. The main thing is to keep them from running and get their attention," said one officer.

During the entire course military training is interspersed with special motivational classes on subjects like family relations, government, narcotic addiction and military tradition.

Infantry instructors, most of them veterans of Vietnam, handle the basic training classes.

"The first time we had 50 trainees on the firing range with loaded M14s and the cadre lined up behind them, we really sweated," one instructor recalled. "But they all kept those things pointed the right way."

Competition among training units is encouraged, and the staff uses mottoes, contests and every other conceivable device to instill in the trainees a sense of responsibility, duty and achievement.

"For a lot of these guys," explained a drill sergeant, "it's the first time anybody ever showed them that someone gives a damn what happens to them."

The course in some ways is tougher on the instructor than the trainees. The troops have a lot more experience violating regulations than in obeying them.

LBJ's Estimates Faulty

U.S. Budget Surplus Evaporating

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $2.4 billion budget surplus announced for fiscal 1969 by former President Johnson now looks so emaciated that President Nixon may have trouble keeping it from vanishing entirely.

The thin margin of black ink appears to be down to $1 billion or less for the year ending June 30, and the administration's quest for cost cuts has failed to turn up any substantial economies.

Cabinet officers have completed an agency-by-agency canvass of potential savings. Budget Director Robert P. Mayo reported the results briefly and orally to Nixon last week, it was learned, and they were largely negative.

In fact, a number of the spending estimates bequeathed by Johnson — for programs whose outlays are automatic or beyond executive control — were found to be too low.

"For many items, the budget figures were at the lower end of a reasonable range of estimates," one official said. "This can't be called dishonest, it's a natural thing to do."

"But if you have skinny estimates all along the way, there's no room left for errors or accidents. The Johnson budget figures are bound to be exceeded."

Budget Director Mayo has predicted that the $183.7 billion budget can be kept out of deficit — there will still be a surplus, he insists, though "not a very robust one."

Tax collections may exceed expectations, but there are no new official estimates. In fact, a $500 million shortfall in revenues is more than possible, because if Congress does not adopt an extension of the 10 per cent surtax before June 15, corporations won't include the surtax payments in their quarterly tax installments due April 15 and June 15. And the surtax issue is likely to be tied up in congressional debate well into the summer.

Such a delay would wipe out more than one-fifth of Nixon's

Adventure in Space Has a Safe Ending

ABOARD USS GUADALCANAL (AP) — Climaxing a 10-day space flight that qualified all Apollo hardware for voyages to the moon, the Apollo 9 astronauts parachuted to a pinpoint landing in the Atlantic Ocean today and were quickly hoisted aboard the recovery ship Guadalcanal.

Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart rode their durable spaceship to a splashdown in gentle seas within sight of this helicopter carrier stationed 300 miles north of Puerto Rico.

With television cameras relaying the dramatic splashdown and recovery to the United States and Europe, the astronauts splashed down just three miles from the Guadalcanal at 12:01 p.m. EST, ending a significant mission that advanced this nation a major step toward an historic landing of two men on the moon in July.

The pinpoint landing was a fitting climax to a flight that had been flawless from liftoff to touchdown. A helicopter was overhead immediately and dropped Navy frogmen into the water. The swimmers established contact, reported the astronauts were in good shape and attached a floatation collar to the bobbing craft.

For the first time, TV viewers watched as the astronauts opened their hatch, stepped into life rafts, and were lifted up to a hovering chopper. The spacemen appeared in good spirits as they waved at the camera and smiled.

Because of the wash from its rotors, the helicopter had to make several passes before the frogmen could grab the birdcage-like hoist device to lift the astronauts up one by one.

When one of the astronauts finally scrambled into the swiveling cage, Mission Control commented that "he's hanging on for dear life." One of the controllers said "It looks like a Mack Sennett comedy."

The helicopter deposited McDivitt, Scott and Schweickart on the Guadalcanal deck at 12:49

p.m., just 48 minutes after they returned to earth.

The bearded trio appeared a bit shaky but happy as they stepped from the helicopter onto a 200-foot red carpet rolled across the deck.

A color guard stood at attention as McDivitt, Scott and Schweickart were greeted by the ship's captain, Capt. Roy M. Sudduth, Virginia Beach, Va., and executive officer, Cmdr. William H. Wood Jr., Nevada, Mo.

They were presented baseball caps with the ship's insignia and then stepped to a microphone. McDivitt said "We had a real good time and I hope we accomplished something worthwhile. The whole space program is made up of a lot of people, of which we're just a small part. But you guys are A-No. 1 to us."

Scott said "It's great to be back and it's great to be here. It was a great flight and a great recovery."

Schweickart, who made his first flight, told the crew: "As a rookie it was my first one. It's been a great flight and we sure have accomplished a lot."

The astronauts then rode an elevator to sick bay to begin extensive medical examinations. After an overnight stay on the Guadalcanal, McDivitt, Scott and Schweickart will be flown early Friday to Eleuthera Island in the Bahamas to board a NASA jet plane. The plane will refuel at Cape Kennedy, Fla., and then head for the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, where the astronauts will begin 10 days of extensive de-briefings on the mission.

Television pictures, relayed through a communications satellite, enabled millions of Americans to share the triumph of their newest space heroes on

Judy Collins accepted a Grammy for best folk singing of "Both Sides Now."

Simon and Garfunkel won for best pop performance by duo or

In Favor Of Keeping Bounties

The Pettis County Court is in favor of keeping the current bounty on predatory animals, providing the State of Missouri continues to pay half the cost.

The court Thursday received a letter from Tony Heckemeyer, Sikeston, state representative from the 157th District, seeking the opinion of the court on House Bill 221, sponsored by Heckemeyer, which would abolish the bounty system.

All three judges, Henry Lamm, Jr., E. L. Birdsong and Zeb Thomas, indicated they favored keeping the present system, even though the cost in some years runs high.

In 1968 the county paid out $6,055 in bounties and in 1967 the bill was $3,790. The county was reimbursed by the state for half of these sums.

The judges indicated that in their belief, even though the predatory population varies drastically from year to year, depending on available food and other natural conditions, only a few of the animals are guilty of raiding area farms.

consent of the council, would include protecting life and property in the city from fire and performance of all other duties connected with this department, according to the commission.

Unless otherwise required by law, all boards and commissions in the proposed charter would be appointed by the mayor with the advice and consent of the city council and would have such powers and perform such duties as prescribed by law or by the charter. If something is not so prescribed by law or by the charter, it would be acted upon by passage of a city ordinance, the commission said.

All board and commission members would serve without compensation, according to the outline approved by the commission.

Allies Deplore Terrorist Activity Against Cities

PARIS (AP) — The U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations bitterly assailed Communist terrorist tactics in South Vietnam at the Paris peace talks today, and the Viet Cong warned the Americans against taking any "appropriate response."

A new round of accusations at the eighth weekly session of the enlarged talks made clear that the deadlock was as hard as ever. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge denounced the other side for attacks in South Vietnam seeking "to terrorize the civilian population into submission."

South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam accused the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese of plans to expand the war, "seriously threatening peace in the Indochinese peninsula, Southeast Asia and in the whole world."

Tran Buu Kiem of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front warned the Americans against taking the "appropriate response" to the current Viet Cong offensive which President Nixon had threatened.

"If the U.S. administration commits new adventurous acts of war under the pretext of 'appropriate response' to recent attacks by the Liberation Armed Forces and the people of South Vietnam," Kiem said, "it will bear full responsibility for the consequences arising from these serious acts."

Kiem said the United States by its Vietnam policy had been led into "the most ignominious failure in the American history of war." He said President Nixon and the new U.S. administration should "not forget this historical lesson."

Lodge accused the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese of treating the civilian population of South Vietnam as a target.

"Your troops mine highways and railroads," he said. "They kill and maim innocent passengers on civilian buses and trains. They assassinate government officials."

They seek to terrorize the civilian population into submission. For this purpose they fire mortars and rockets into cities and towns. Your troops fire deliberately into villages and hamlets in order to draw fire upon innocent civilians."

"These things are an old story to the people of South Vietnam. They have known for many years that those seeking the overthrow of their government, knowing they cannot expect support at the ballot box, use terror, sabotage, coercion and intimidation as their methods."

Accidents, Injuries Increase

The accident and injury count for Pettis County during February is up, compared to the same period last year, but the death count is down, according to the Missouri Highway Patrol.

In February this year the Highway Patrol reports 23 accidents, one death and 11 injured, while last year's report shows 13 accidents, five deaths and three injuries, for the county, outside of Sedalia.

The comparable totals for area counties are: Johnson, 1969, 25 accidents, no deaths and four injuries. For 1968, 24 accidents, two deaths and 12 injuries.

Israel and Egypt Exchange Gunfire

TEL AVIV (AP) — Artillery duels blazed between Israelis and Egyptians across the Suez Canal all along its 103-mile length today.

Each side blamed the other for starting the new fighting.

An Israeli army spokesman said the battles erupted after a day of sporadic exchanges and machine-gun fire.

A Cairo radio broadcast said rockets, artillery, mortars and light weapons were brought into play.

These directors would be appointed by the mayor with the advice and consent of the council as outlined in the proposed charter.

The police department would be directed by an appointed chief of police, who would also be subject to removal as provided by ordinance.

"The chief of police and every police officer shall be a conservator of the peace," the plan states. Their duties also include all aspects relating to the peace and safety of the public as prescribed by the city council.

Fear Loss of Crew After Ships Collide

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A Soviet fishing trawler sank with more than 20 crewmen aboard after a pre-dawn collision with a Panamanian tanker off the coast of North Carolina, the Coast Guard reported today.

The Bureau of Commercial Fisheries at Norfolk, Va., said the Soviet bloc vessel, part of a 106-unit fleet, carried a crew of 22 to 26 men.

No injuries were reported to crewmen aboard the tanker, bound for Aruba off the coast of Venezuela at the time of the accident.

LT (j.g.) Howard E. Copeland 5th Coast Guard District information officer, said the collision occurred about 4 a.m. and was reported by the chief of a Soviet fishing fleet that has been sighted off the East Coast for the past month.

A Coast Guard airplane, helicopter and a 44-foot surfboat were sent to the scene, some 31 miles off Oregon Inlet and reported finding an oil slick, debris and an empty raft.

The Coast Guard identified the tanker as the Esso Honduras, registered out of Panama. The 693-foot vessel was reported to be undamaged.

Copeland said the tanker remained at the scene of the collision about five hours after the accident and aided Coast Guard search and rescue efforts.

He said no survivors and no bodies were found and that the 100 to 150-foot fishing vessel apparently sank immediately after the impact.

The Soviet fishing fleet flag-ship reported the collision to the Coast Guard.

Finance Division Is Outlined

Preliminary reports on a proposed division of finance, administrative services and boards were heard by the Sedalia Home Rule Commission at its regular meeting at City Hall Wednesday evening.

The proposed division of finance would be directed by the municipal administrator as outlined in the report submitted to the commission and would be headed by a director of finance. This division would be responsible for the preparation of the city budget, tax assessments, levies, and collections and would have custody of all funds, investments or other securities of the city, the reports said.

The director should audit and approve all outgoing funds of the city, and maintain a general accounting system for the city and its departments as well as submitting a monthly statement of all receipts and expenditures to the council. At the end of every fiscal year a complete financial statement and a report for the year would be prepared, under the proposed plan.

The administrative departments of finance, personnel, law, public works, public health and welfare, fire, police and such boards and commissions as may be required by law or created by ordinance were covered by the commission under the heading of administrative services.

These departments and boards may be consolidated, or their functions assigned to other boards or departments, but no function or duty which is required by the city charter may be discontinued, the commission report said.

"At the head of each department there shall be a director who shall be an officer of the

Battle Deaths Average 56 Each Day in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today that 789 American troops were killed in action during the first 14 days of the Viet Cong's 19-day-old spring offensive, an average of 56 battlefield deaths every 24 hours.

The weekly casualty report issued by U.S. Headquarters said 336 Americans died in action during the week of March 2-8, the second week of the current offensive.

This was 117 less than the 453 Americans reported killed during the first week of the offensive. But it was double the average of 170 Americans killed each week this year until the offensive began.

South Vietnamese and enemy casualties also were substantially less than the week before, according to the weekly allied summaries.

The Saigon government said 259 of its men were killed, while the two allied commands reported 4,063 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese battle dead. With 521 government troops and 6,813 of the enemy reported killed the week before, this brought Vietnamese battle dead during the first two weeks of the offensive to 780 government troops and 10,876 of the enemy.

Military analysts, noting the drop in casualties, said that enemy attacks last week declined compared to the first seven days of the offensive. They said, however, that the Communist command apparently was regrouping and resupplying its units in preparation for a new phase of the offensive.

The U.S. Command also announced 1,694 Americans were wounded last week, compared with 2,593 the previous week. South Vietnamese wounded totaled 1,058, down from 2,072 the week before. Another 27 South Vietnamese were listed as missing in action last week.

The weekly summary raised American casualties in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, to 32,712 killed in action, 206,182 wounded and 1,321 missing or captured. The U.S. Command said at least 461,256 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have been killed in those eight years.

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong stepped up its offensive again today, pummeling about 40 military bases and towns with mortars and rockets during the night.

South Vietnamese headquarters said five persons were killed and 55 wounded in four attacks in the Mekong Delta. U.S. headquarters said over-all military casualties and damage were light. But six helicopters were damaged when 20 rounds landed on the airfield at Ban Me Thuot, capital of the central highlands.

The U.S. Command announced that American infantry, artillery and helicopter gunships killed 54 enemy troops in three clashes northwest and south of Saigon Wednesday.

Broader Police Powers Result from Senate Bill

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate today a bill that will give police in cities over 10,000 authority to arrest anyone suspected of a misdemeanor. The vote was 83-64, just one more than needed for passage.

It would permit holding suspects for five hours, and up to 20 hours if a suspect is wanted for a felony in another state. It would prohibit disclosure of arrests if no conviction resulted.

An amendment tacked on earlier would prohibit police from shooting suspects stopped or arrested under the bill.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. Kenneth J. Rothman, D-Clayton. Rothman said a police officer cannot arrest suspects under the present law for a misdemeanor unless he sees the act committed.

Wednesday the House gave up on its debate over an increase in the Kansas City earnings tax and turned, instead to pass a proposal to create a congressional redistricting commission.

The measure would let the 10 Congressional Districts submit two names from each major political party to the governor. He would select one person from each party in each district to serve on the commission.

The proposal met with stiff opposition on the House floor again Wednesday. The arguments were the same.

Rep. Robert E. Young, R-Carriage, said the legislature should not abdicate its responsibility to a commission. Rep. Charles A. Sheehan, D-House Springs, said he hoped the Senate would have sense enough to reject it.

Last week Rep. James I. Spanhower, D-Marshall, sponsor of the plan said he favored the commission approach instead of the legislature facing the prospect of lengthy debate

Hints Nixon Might Have Alternate Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, returning from Vietnam to find the administration still grappling with the hot political problem of missile defense, says he expects President Nixon to press ahead with an altered version of the Sentinel system.

Nixon delayed announcing a decision on the embattled program, originally expected early in the week, until after he conferred today with Laird.

Laird, who has indicated support for antiballistic missile defense, said he didn't know exactly what the changes in the $5.5-billion program might be. But he said he had presented Nixon with several options for modifying the Sentinel before he went to Vietnam.

Wednesday he said, "If we were to stay in session every day of the year," the legislature would not have enough time to do everything it should. The House also passed and sent to the Senate a bill that would require approval by a majority of the voters in Jackson County areas to be annexed, as well as in the annexing area, before such a move could be made.

Third and fourth class county treasurers would get a pay raise in a bill passed by the House Wednesday.

The Senate, meanwhile, advanced a bill to abolish the offices of township collector and assessor and one to raise the daytime speed limit on interstate highways from 70 to 80 miles per hour.

Try, Try, Try Again

The unreasonable person more often than not gets that way primarily to attract attention.

Basically this reveals an inferiority complex which so many have as an emotional and unattractive characteristic.

Making noise or doing things in conflict with proper social behavior is simply a gesture to get up stage amid the crowd.

One device of a minority to attract attention to themselves is the practice around Smith-Cotton High School of tossing away on school and neighboring property paper cups, napkins or other lunch hour refuse — and, of all articles, empty beer cans.

Current neighborhood objections are not the first. A few years ago youngsters, either drop outs or graduates taking off from work at noon, would park near Smith-Cotton with a pack or two of beer to entertain some of the high school girls. Some of their antics got pretty cruddy inside the automobiles.

If these daylight practices are still going on they ought to be discouraged by some form of surveillance.

However, littering seems to be the major problem now and a campaign to minimize it is in order. This won't be easy because a minority will continue to be defiant of conformity even in such matters as keeping the school premises clean.

Principal Early Finley aptly evaluates the situation today by stating school authorities recognize the problem and continually work with the students in an effort to be a good neighbor to the residents nearby. The majority of students cooperate, but a few do not, and it is these persons that give the school a bad name.

A persistent appeal to pride is apropos. This will get through to students who care. There is always the prospect that some of the indifferent may be converted. The effort should be rewarding.

Remember that ditty learned in grade school: "If at first you don't succeed; try, try, try again."

Millions of dollars will never eradicate the common, everyday litterbug unless everyone of us, as an individual, resolves not to be one, not even once in awhile.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Cliques Complicate Nixon Command

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Although President Nixon has stressed to his aides that he doesn't want them to form cliques and maneuver for power, this is precisely what has been going on ever since he took command of the White House.

One clique is headed by Bryce Harlow, chief legislative aide, who formerly tended Washington chores for Proctor and Gamble, the soapmakers. His tight little group, which also includes Bob Ellsworth and Charlie McWhorter, is politically oriented. Its recommendations to the President are heavily influenced by politics.

Another bloc has formed around Bob Haldeman, Dwight Chapin and Ron Ziegler, all former whiz kids from the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency, who are more concerned with efficiency than ideology. They have sought to impose their ideas of smooth management upon the White House staff. Haldeman's bright, brash 23-year-old assistant, Larry Higbee, has caused the most resentment by attempting to order his elders around.

The two top policymakers on the President's staff — Henry Kissinger for foreign affairs and Dr. Arthur Burns for domestic policies — are also developing their own personal coteries. — are also developing their own personal coteries. — are also developing their own personal coteries. — are also developing their own personal coteries. — are also developing their own personal coteries.

Meanwhile, the President has made it plain that he doesn't want small cliques to regulate his access to ideas and individuals. He also doesn't want departmental matters processed through three or four assistants before they reach him.

Unless he intervenes, however, this is what will continue to happen.

—Diamonds and Mink—

The United Mine Workers' chief, tough Tony Boyle, took offense over a report in this column the other day that union officials were living in high style on the dues paid by hard-working wage slaves who live in constant fear of cave-ins, lay-offs and black lung.

In a blaze of publicity, Boyle appeared on Capitol Hill the other day to dramatize his fealty to the mine workers by expressing indignation over unsafe mines. What the cameras missed was his redheaded wife, sitting in the front row of the Senate hearing room, behind a great, round pair of green goggles. She was wearing five rings, two bracelets, one diamond wrist watch, a gold necklace with a pendant watch and matching cameo pin and earrings.

Seated alongside her was Mrs. John Owens, wife of the mine workers' secretary-treasurer, in a full-length mink coat.

—Mike's Fade-Away—

Mike Kirwan, the sometimes benevolent, sometimes cantankerous congressman from Youngstown, Ohio, will retire from public life at the end of this Congress. He will be 83 years old.

He will begin his quiet fade-away in a few weeks by stepping down after 21 years from the chairmanship of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

The liberal bloc known formally as the Democratic Study Group has demanded a reorganization of the committee, which, in times past, has tended to favor financially the old mossbacks. Speaker John McCormack agreed to the shake-up, and Kirwan offered no objections.

"I'll be glad to step aside, but first I want to improve the finances for the new chairman," he told McCormack.

For this purpose, Kirwan will hold a gala $500-a-plate dinner for House Democrats in Washington May 12. He will also organize a Gavel Club, comparable to the GOP Booster Club, as a fund-raising apparatus.

His successor as campaign chairman probably will be either Massachusetts Rep. "Tip" O'Neill or Oklahoma Rep. Ed Edmondson.

Note: Kirwan has chalked up an amazing record of campaign victories on tight budgets. Since he took over the chairmanship in January 1948, the Republicans have won a House majority in only one congressional election. A preponderance of Republicans was swept into Congress in the Eisenhower landslide of 1952.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — If I send in my return now, how long will it take to get my refund?

A — Refund claims filed now can be processed and the check issued in 5-6 weeks. Returns filed in April take longer to process, because of the high volume of returns received at that time.

Any error on the return, such as a mistake in figuring the new tax surcharge or a missing Social Security number or signature, will cause delays. If your refund is delayed, wait at least 10 weeks from the time you filed before writing IRS about it.

Q — I collected state unemployment benefits last year. Do I declare them as income?

A — No, state unemployment benefits are not taxable and do not have to be reported.

'Monument' to War

The nations of the world will spend more than $200 billion on armaments and other military needs in 1969.

They have already spent more than $4 trillion on wars and preparation for wars so far in this century.

If the present rate of increased spending continues, that figure will be doubled within 10 years. Even if the present rate remains steady, more than $10 trillion will have been spent in homage to Mars by the end of the century.

The figures are from the third annual survey of world military expenditures by the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. A few others:

• Since 1964, the world's Gross National Product has risen 9 per cent per capita; the world's military budget, 16 per cent.

• More than 20 million men and women are in active duty forces; another 30 million are directly or indirectly engaged in productive activities resulting from military expenditures.

• The average annual expenditure per soldier, worldwide, is $7,800; for the estimated one billion school-age children in the world, the expenditure averages $100 a year. Half the governments of the world, including the United States, spend more on defense than on education.

This is only a sampling from the report. The statistics go on. And on. And on.

Writing on the... Rocket

The Soviet Union used American-manufactured components in its Soyuz 4 and 5 manned satellite flights. To be sure, the items were rather minor—just ballpoint pens.

At the urging of cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, says Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine, Russia last year purchased 100 zero-gravity ballpoint pens and 1,000 nitrogen-purged refill cartridges made by the Fisher Pen Co. of Van Nuys, Calif. Russian-made ballpoint pens are useless in a zero-gravity environment.

The Soviets got the same 40 per cent quantity discount on the $3.98 pen and $1.60 refill as our NASA.

Many have long been urging Russo-American co-operation instead of rivalry in space exploration. Well, this is a beginning. The ballpoint pen may be mightier than the rocket.

Largest use of salt is in the preparation of chemicals, accounting for about 70 per cent usage in the United States.

Saigon's Village Victories Mire Viet Foes' Drives

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Hidden by Ho Chi Minh's winter-spring offensive the snail-paced Paris talks and the credibility gap, a fragile breakthrough of quite tremendous significance seems to be taking place in South Vietnam.

The changes that make up this breakthrough are scattered and mixed with many failures. The improvements move ahead by fits and starts. They're touch-and-go in many cases and could disappear into dust. But the balance of power in the countryside is beginning to tilt slightly in our favor.

The changes don't yet add up to a counterrevolution against the Viet Cong. But guerrilla wars depend on momentum. And these trends might just be enough to halt Hanoi's momentum and break the back of Ho's war.

The Buddhists, Catholics, Cao Dai and Hoa Hao have intensified magnificently their recruiting and organizing over considerable areas in the countryside. While these efforts are mostly aimed at gaining religious and/or political strength for themselves (rather than at strengthening the government or winning the war), these evangelist groups compete strongly with Communist organizers.

Non-Communist student groups from Saigon and other major cities now push out into Viet Cong-held and contested areas on weekends for swinging discussion groups or talk-ins. Students are excited by the adventure, pleased with the results. They do it on their own. Their parents sometimes are shocked, first, by their disappearance and, afterward, learning where their sons and daughters have been.

In some districts and provinces, Saigon has succeeded in separating military and civilian government. For years, the local army field commander was in fact the local "war lord." Civilian officials obeyed him on political and economic matters.

North Vietnamese have been replaced by South Vietnamese in several score key positions in the central government.

Several dozens of high-ranking officials have been removed for arrogant corruption. Though many of the replacements have also been corrupt (because of a shortage of qualified officials), the removals have set a warning. That is, corruption has been reduced—somewhat.

Over-all, a number of extremely incompetent army officers, province chiefs and officials, and Saigon aides have been replaced by men a notch or two better.

Rural hamlet and village officials elected in the past two years are proving to be an improvement over their predecessors, most of whom had been appointed. Officials are finding that, with a little training, some of these men are turning out extremely well. Some, of course, are incompetent, regardless of training.

Gradually, more power is being taken from the central government, placed in the village councils, giving rural people a greater stake.

More farmers and townspeople are informing on Viet Cong arms, food and equipment caches. Psychological warfare specialists measure success in guerrilla war by the willingness or unwillingness of local citizens to inform on the enemy.

South Vietnamese regional militia or national guard-type forces are depended on to protect hamlets from small-scale VC attacks and from larger attacks until help arrives.

In years past, regular officers who fouled up were assigned to command these units. Report after report told of militia which patrolled in daytime, withdrew at night. In fire fights, some hid, others quickly retreated.

Today, there are increasing numbers of regional militia which repulse attacks by equal or larger VC units.

These aren't the "victories" one normally writes of in war. But they're the stuff and substance of victory in guerrilla insurgencies.

In "Winning Declarer Play" there is a most interesting chapter on bridge mathematics. Dorothy Hayden points out that you must consider all possibilities, not just one or two, in comparing the chance of success of various plays.

Percy was a mathematician who had just taken up duplicate. He arrived at six no-trump. East won the first trick with the diamond ace and led back a spade. Percy knew that a finesse represented a 50 per cent chance while a 3-3 break in hearts was only a 36 per cent chance. Either would give him his 12th trick so he took the 50 per cent and went down.

Harry wasn't as good a mathematician as Percy, but he made the hand against the same defense. He refused the finesse in spades and ran off all his diamonds and clubs. He made sure he played the clubs last from his own hand. This put West in a squeeze. He had to chuck the king of spades or unguard his jack of hearts.

Harry's play was far better mathematically. He would make his contract against a 3-3 break in hearts or any time the king of spades showed up in the same hand as the long hearts.

Incidentally, our old friend the Unlucky Expert would probably have gone down two tricks. Against him East would cash the diamonds and discard the jack or queen of spades. Then he would run clubs and West would get rid of his seven and nine of spades as unostentatiously as possible. Then our hero would run off his high hearts and eventually lose the spade finesse to lose the last two tricks to West.

We Know the Way Out

My eldest son had the best words. I suppose. When we visit a ghetto, we know the way out. My children have seen pictures and read words, but even a prize-winning photograph cannot really capture the smell, the grit in the air, the vacant eyes of some passersby and the hatred in some other eyes.

We walked down a narrow dark street where the buildings pressed close, humped together like big, dirty, square teeth in a too-narrow mouth.

We saw a rat. I am a walking encyclopedia on rats. I know the diseases they can carry and statistics on rat bites and how neighborhood baiting is done. I've seen the latest figures on rat-caused business losses. I have never seen one standing nonchalantly on a sidewalk in the sunshine.

A voice asked, "You lost?" and its owner, a woman with a baby in her arms, sat next to me on the steps where I rested. I smoothed my hand over his white-blond hair and she passed her hand over her mouth as she spoke, ashamed that most of her teeth were gone. The baby was almost two, she said, and she thought maybe he wasn't "right." I mentioned an address where she could take him for a checkup and she hunched her shoulders in reply.

Later, Cissy said, "She's terrible! She should take him to a doctor!" Perhaps at 10, Cissy knows more about prenatal care or contacting a doctor than the woman on the steps. Is it also possible for her to understand why an adult doesn't know? Or, if she knows, why she hasn't done something?

I thought of a friend who spent four months in India. He said one day, when riding on a bus there, he began to cry, suddenly overwhelmed with the terrible knowledge that he could spend all he had and give his life besides and still he could never really change things.

We didn't cry. And we tried not to feel guilty about having swimming lessons and other fripperies while people a few miles away from us go without sheets on their beds and enough food in their stomachs. We talked about investing in children with schools and food and how it was a better investment than bonds and real estate.

"I don't like it here. Let's go!" my youngest said. It all seemed so simple and easy for her. Why didn't the kids in front of the grocery put out their hands and say, "I don't like it here. Let's go!" But, then, what does she know? She's never had her mouth stopped or her hand slapped away. Why, she doesn't even know about ignorance or prejudice.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Effective Treatment Depends on Cause

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What causes a burning feeling on urination? What will relieve it?

A — The cause may be cystitis (inflammation of the bladder), a highly acid urine or a bladder stone. Your doctor must discover the cause before he can prescribe effective treatment.

Q — I have a bladder infection, an aftermath of a difficult childbirth. I am taking Gantanol, which helps, but as soon as I stop taking it the trouble returns. Is there anything I can do to clear up this infection?

A — Gantanol is a sulfa drug that is usually effective against urinary infections. It is necessary to continue its use for at least 10 days after the symptoms are relieved or the infection is likely to return. If you have recurrences in spite of this precaution, yours is a deep-seated infection that may require the services of a urologist.

It may help to have a urine culture to determine what organisms are causing the infection. Then your doctor can select drugs known to be effective against these germs. In stubborn cases, several drugs have been found to be beneficial — nitrofurantoin, nitrofurantoin, nalidixic acid (NegGram) or sulfamethizole. Sometimes treatment with these drugs has to be continued uninterrupted for a year.

Q — Whenever I become excited or nervous I have to urinate so frequently that it is embarrassing. Is there anything I can do to get over this?

A — This is a common complaint. Frequency may be due to a variety of causes, but if nervous tension is the cause you may need a short course of a tranquilizer and lessons in how to relax.

Q — In 1964 I was operated on for a bladder tumor. Ever since then I have had bladder stones. Is there any cure for this condition?

A — If the stones are too large to pass through your urethra a urologist can introduce a cystoscope into your bladder and through this tube, using another instrument, he can crush the stones. Salicylates can then be given in carefully controlled dosage to prevent the formation of further stones.

Q — In a recent column you stated that chewing tobacco would cause the same damage as cigarettes. How can chewing tobacco cause lung cancer?

A — I can't. I should have stated that it has the same effect on the heart, blood pressure and circulation.

Guest Editorial

COLUMBUS (Ohio) DISPATCH: A Tax Switch. — It is highly improbable that any financial wizard ever will come up with a revenue plan that is wholly equitable.

But Norway has scheduled a plan it claims will be closer than conventional system. Starting next year, it will erase all income taxes for the low and middle income brackets and supplant it with a general sales tax.

Currently Norwegians are paying what amounts to a 13.5 per cent sales tax. Starting next Jan. 1, the levy will jump to 20 per cent. And only the very wealthy will pay an income tax in addition. Officials in Oslo contend this levy will be more equitable.

Americans will have to do some detailed reckoning to determine whether they would be better off under the existing tax plan or one which hinges on sales levies.

In the final analysis, they probably would conclude that there is no one system which is foolproof, none which is wholly desirable and none which would ever leave one with any more cash in pocket.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Offers Old Remedy For Reducing Bruises

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for mothers of small children who get bumps or black and blue marks where swelling usually appears. To get the swelling and color to disappear, immediately soak a cloth or piece of gauze in a mixture of vinegar and salt and apply to a bruised spot where the skin is unbroken. In 10 minutes the bump will disappear. I find this works better than beefsteak. I learned this old remedy over 50 years ago from a lady who said she learned it from her grandmother. I used it on my pupils during the years I taught school and, later, when my own children were growing up.

Another Pointer: When a person is entering roses in a show, the leaves can be groomed by having their surfaces lightly rubbed with a piece of old nylon hose. They will look as if they have been waxed.—WILLARD

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I hope some of the readers can tell me how to treat and finish a small, old "pot-bellied" stove. Mine still has a coating of ashes on the inside and the finish on the legs and lower outside part flakes off to the touch. I would like to make a lamp stand or planter out of this when it is finished.—EMILY

DEAR POLLY—To make a simple little abacus for your preschool child, do as follows: Clip the lower edge of a coat hanger with wire snippers, bend a hook on the side and slip spools on the lower bar of the hanger. The spools may be painted if you like. Close hook (covered with tape for safety) and your child can learn to count to five or so as well as do simple addition and subtraction by sliding the spools back and forth.—MRS. R. O.

Budget

elbow room, squeezing the surplus below $2 billion. And that's just part of the squeeze.

As it now appears, the surplus is being reduced by bigger-than-budgeted outlays for a number of items, including:

—Interest payments: Soaring interest rates have brought an increase of $200 million to $300 million in the estimated $16 billion cost of carrying the federal debt this year.

—Feed grain payments: Johnson announced in his budget message, just before leaving office, a cut in the advance payments made to farmers who withdraw feed grain acreage from production. This gave farmers little advance notice; the Nixon administration says it feels "a moral obligation" to restore the payments, at an added budget cost of $168 million.

New Range To Train Drivers

School Superintendent Stanley Lebow announced today that contracts have been awarded for construction of a multi-car driving range for Warrensburg School District R-VI. The facility, to be constructed entirely from federal funds, is being built under provisions of the Highways Safety Act of 1966.

The Driver Education facility is the first of its kind to be constructed in the United States, he said. The range will cover an area the size of eight football fields.

Lebow said the facility should be completed and in operation July 1, 1969. The federal grant calls for an expenditure of $296,800.

The project is designed to improve driver education programs for high school students in the Warrensburg School District R-VI and will also be shared by College High School and high schools in Chilhowee, Holden, Knob Noster, Kingsville and Leeton. Central Missouri State College will also use the facility extensively for training driver education teachers and in a Safety Education Program under terms of a lease agreement between the Warrensburg school district and CMSC.
